CLIFFORD CHARGES . . .

Saigon Balked In 9th Inning

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Clark Clifford accused Saigon Tuesday of balking in the "ninth inning" of Vietnam peace efforts and said the United States may have to continue negotiating alone.

The defense chief said President Johnson is discussing with the South Vietnamese their insistence on speaking in Paris as the No. 1 party for the allies, but he said the President faces a crucial decision.

"I think he will continue to confer with the Saigon government until he reaches the conclusion as to whether he is going to go with them or whether he shall go without them," Clifford told newsmen.

"But I believe that the decision will have to be made. We are still hopeful that it will be the former."

Lam In Denial

In Paris, Pham Dang Lam, head of the South Vietnamese observers, denied that his government had "gone back on its word."

"The truth is," he added, that Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Ngugen Van Thieu "met more than 10 times and did not arrive at an accord."

Originally the United States and South Vietnamese representatives were to have met Nov. 6 with the North Vietnamese and with the Communist political organization in South Vietnam, the National Liberation Front.

Clifford was red-faced and obviously annoyed as he defended Johnson for proceeding with his Oct. 31 announcement of a bombing halt and peace breakthrough even though, as it turns out, South Vietnam has suddenly become reluctant.

"He had a deal with Hanoi in Paris," Clifford said. "He had worked on it for six months . . . I felt that he was committed, and he felt that he had to go ahead on his commitment."

Clifford said the switch in South Vietnamese attitude came on the very eve of Johnson's announcement that U.S. planes would stop bombing North Vietnamese territory on Nov. 1.

Clifford also in effect warned Hanoi that recent artillery attacks across the demilitarized zone are a violation of the general understanding the United States had when it stopped the bombing of North Vietnam.

Saigon: Further U.S.-Hanoi Talks Would Be Invalid

Saigon (AP) — A South Vietnamese government source said Wednesday further peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam would be considered invalid by the Saigon government if it did not participate.

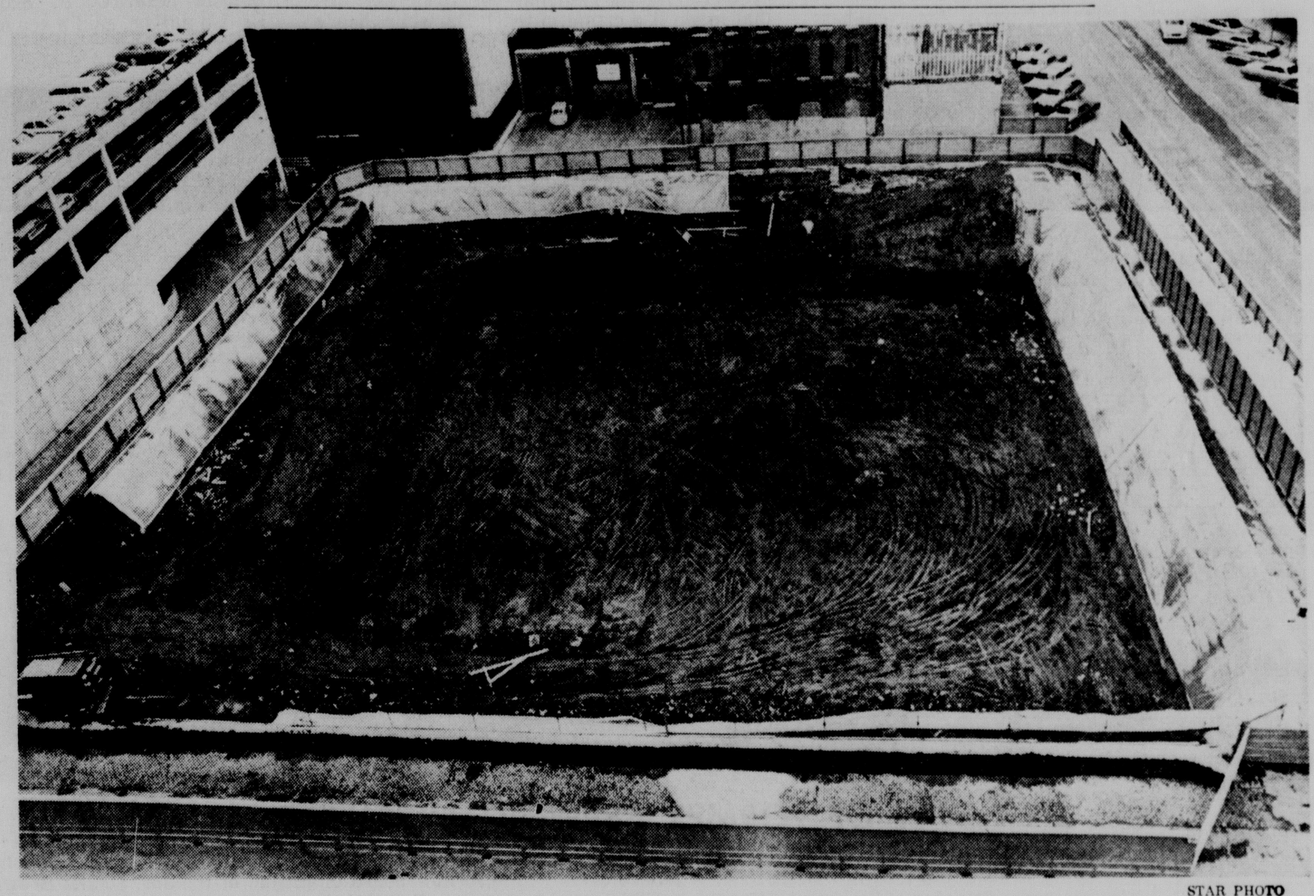

The source said any peace terms involving the war in South Vietnam, as contrasted with the bombing if North Vietnam, could come only in direct talks between Hanoi and Saigon.

He said President Nguyen Van Thieu presumably would continue to boycott the Paris peace talks until some formula which Saigon could accept is worked out.

Unique Mat To Hold Up Bank

By JOAN McCULLOUGH
Star Staff Writer

Cement mixers will soon be rolling in to pour the unique mat foundation of the $7.5 million, 20-story First National Bank Building at 13th and M.

Builders expect to complete the foundation before Thanksgiving.

The planned mat foundation of the structure differs from the point bearing piling foundation, commonly used in the Lincoln area.

A reinforced concrete mat approximately five feet thick and 120 feet square will support the building. It will contain over 200 tons of steel and over 1,200,000 pounds of concrete.

Such a concrete pad will work better for the heavy structure than a piling foundation because the bedrock level is 130 feet below the surface at the location, said Dick Allen, vice president in charge of operations for the David H. Murdock Development Co.

The reinforced concrete building will be especially heavy because it is so high. The weight of the building would make it necessary for a piling-type foundation to rest on the bedrock level, Allen said.

Footage of the building will be over 300,000 square feet, including heated parking areas on the second through and fifth floors.

Approximately 180,000 square feet will be available for renting.

'Good Progress'

"We are pleased with the interest in the building and leasing is progressing better than we anticipated," Allen said.

The First National Bank will occupy the lower lobby, the main floor, the sixth through ninth floors and part of the tenth floor.

Heated sidewalks to melt snow, with two-color terrazzo stone will be installed along both 13th and M Streets.

Double-insulated, bronze-tinted glass will be used in full-length windows on all sides of the building.

All windows will be "washed" with a blanket of air to keep the rooms at comfortable temperatures.

Work will begin on the individual floors after Thanksgiving. Basic construction on each of the first seven floors will take about two weeks and the upper floors about one week each.

Completion is set for late 1969.

Developer

The building is owned and managed by the David H. Murdock Development Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., a company which has developed over 3,000,000 square feet of office space and specializes in high-rise structures.

A development in management of the building is the appointment of Gene Cederdahl, 2635 Woodsdale, as project manager. Cederdahl, a native of Lincoln, will be in charge of leasing and managing the project.

Cederdahl, whose office is in the First National Bank Building, worked for six years with the Continental Oil Company and has been in the real estate and insurance business for the last nine years.

Washington (AP) —The United States gave the go-ahead Tuesday for man's first flights around the moon this Christmas Eve.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered the bold journey to the lunar unknowns after what it called "careful and thorough examination of all systems and the risks and benefits involved."

Borman, Lovell, Anders

The Apollo 8 astronauts — Frank Borman, James A. Lovell and William A. Anders — are to be launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Dec. 21 and go into orbit some 70 miles above the moon on Christmas Eve, if things work out as planned.

During 10 lunar orbits over a 20-hour period, they plan to take photographs of the lunar surface. They particularly want to survey the lunar equatorial area upon which another Apollo team may land late next year.

Assuming NASA can keep to the plan, here's what the astronauts will do:

They will carry along television equipment with which they will send back several TV shows along the order of those transmitted from earth orbit last month by the Apollo 7 astronauts.

31 Hours

If the cameras and transmitters are working properly, they will send back their first program from well along on the path toward the moon, 31 hours after launch.

The second showing will come 55 hours after liftoff, or about 11 hours before attainment of lunar orbit. It thus should provide a striking view of the approach to the moon.

The astronauts will attempt to send back television views three times while they circle the moon Christmas Eve and Christmas Day — on the first, second and ninth orbits.

No plans were indicated for further TV shows on the 57-hour return flight.

Landing In Coveralls

After the Cape Kennedy launching the three crew members will slip out of their bulky pressurized space suits to make the rest of the journey — even the landing — in comfortable flight coveralls.

This would be the first return of U.S. astronauts in a shirt-sleeve environment. During the 11-day earth orbital mission of Apollo 7, the astronauts used their space suits only for liftoff and for the return from orbit.

Previous U.S. astronauts wore their pressurized suits throughout.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA's acting administrator, said the decision to make the most ambitious flight possible with the current version of the Apollo spacecraft was reached Monday afternoon, following conferences among the top personnel involved.

Paine said President Johnson and President-elect Richard M. Nixon were immediately advised of the flight decision.

Paine emphasized that the recommendations by NASA officials were unanimous, and that their decision had no relation to possible Soviet lunar ventures.

"I don't know if the Russians plan to send men around the moon before December, but that prospect didn't play any part in our decisions," Paine said.

Swanson Won't Rubber Stamp Tax Rate

. . . SAYS INCOME LEVY 'CUT AND DRIED'

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State Treasurer Wayne Swanson said Tuesday he will probably absent himself from the State Board of Equalization meeting because the decision "has apparently been cut and dried for a 10% income tax rate next year."

The five-member board will meet Wednesday, 8:30 a.m., to set an income tax rate for 1969.

Referring to news reports of the past week, Swanson said Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, Secretary of State Frank Marsh and Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil "apparently have already set a 10% rate — at least in their minds."

"Unless I'm compelled to attend," he said, "I see no reason to show up just to rubber stamp a decision that's already been made by three members."

The fifth member is State Auditor Ray C. Johnson.

Swanson noted that Tiemann is "on record" for a 10% income tax and the call of a special session of the Legislature before January in order to keep the sales tax at 2½%.

"The Legislature voted a 2% sales tax beginning Jan. 1 with the balance of revenue for the biennium's budget to come from the income tax," Swanson said. "Sales tax revenue has exceeded the tax commissioner's estimates."

'Pressuring'

He said the governor is "pressuring" the Legislature for a 2½% sales tax through state board action on the income tax rate, and has called the defeat of the anti-income tax amendment "a mandate from the people" for a higher sales tax.

'If any mandate can be read into the income tax vote," Swanson said, "it was for a 2% sales tax as intended by the Legislature beginning next January."

Swanson said he has no information about state revenues and expenditures other than "what I've read in the newspapers."

Would Be Surprised

He said he would be surprised if Wednesday's meeting sheds any more light on state finances other than "more talk about cash flow" and "building balances for next biennium's budget.'

"Apparently the board's majority will go along with the governor," he said, "and I won't be needed even for a quorum."

Supreme Court Ruling Is Praised By Scopes

Shreveport, La. (AP) — John Thomas Scopes, the defendant in the famous "monkey trial" of 1925, Tuesday hailed the Supreme Court's action in striking down Arkansas' anti-evolution law, saying it was "more or less a dead issue anyway."

"It is what I have been working for all along," Scopes said at his home in Shreveport. "I guess you could say I'm very happy about the decision."

"I thought all along — ever since 1925 — that the law was unconstitutional," he said.

Violation Deliberate

Scopes was a 24-year-old substitute biology teacher when he was thrust into the limelight in 1925. He deliberately violated Tennessee's anti-evolution law — teaching that man descended from the ape — to test the law he considered unconstitutional.

His trial in the tiny hamlet of Dayton, Tenn., featured oratorical clashes between his famed attorney, Clarence Darrow, and special prosecutor William Jennings Bryan of Lincoln, Neb. Scopes was convicted and fined $100, but the fine and conviction later were reversed by the state supreme court on a technicality.

The Tennessee court ruled that the jury, not the judge, should have set the fine.

Test Prevented

Scopes said the reversal prevented him from carrying the constitutional issue of the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Regarding the Supreme Court decision on the Arkansas law, Scopes said: "It was more or less a dead issue anyway, except in the minds of a few people who thought they were being discriminated against. Most of the schools got around the law by teaching development instead of evolution."

Scopes said he felt the ruling would clarify the situation for the schools and eventually "the people who were against it will realize they will not be hurt and they were not being injured by anything the schools were doing."

Scopes, 68, retired from his job as a gas company geologist in Shreveport in 1965.

Two Testify At Hearing For Davis

. . . ATTORNEY FINED FOR CONTEMPT; ENTERED CLOSED COURT

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — The testimony of the Hall County pathologist, Dr. T. T. Sloss, was finished Tuesday afternoon in Hall County Court here concluding the first day of closed door preliminary hearing in the Thomas F. Davis murder case.

Judge Edward Dixon told reporters as he left the courthouse that Dr. Sloss' testimony had concerned his autopsy of the body of Mrs. Thomas F. Davis, X-rays taken of the body and two pictures of the car in which she was found.

Mrs. Davis was found dead the night of Aug. 14, 1968, in the front seat of a station wagon in a ditch east of Grand Island.

The judge said he had "no idea" how much longer the preliminary hearing would continue.

First At Scene

The only other witness called to testify Tuesday was Thomas Harman, who told this reporter before he was called that he had been the first at the scene the night Mrs. Davis' body was found.

The hearing is scheduled to resume at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The first degree murder charge against Davis alleges that he murdered his wife, Phyllis, the night of Aug. 14, 1968. Davis was charged after Hall County Attorney Robert Paulick called a coroner's jury which held six sessions over a 29-day period.

Judge Dixon ordered the preliminary hearing closed to the public and to newsmen, despite an appeal from newspaper and broadcast representatives.

As the hearing opened Tuesday about 20 newsmen were present but were, as expected, barred from the courtroom. The judge further insisted that Sheriff William Ummel keep the newsmen out of a reception room adjacent to the courtroom.

As the hearing opened Grand Island attorney Lloyd W. Kelly opened the door of the courtroom and walked in uninvited. The judge who had previously evicted Kelly when he entered during preliminary motions, again told Kelly to leave. When Kelly refused the second time the judge ordered him fined $100 for contempt of court. Kelly thereupon asked the judge to set bond and the judge replied, $500.

As newsmen stood outside the slightly ajar door, Kelly told the judge "I just happen to have it on me" and placed five $100 bills in front of the judge.

'Suspended'

At that time Sheriff Ummel closed the door and a few moments later led Kelly out of the courtroom. Kelly told the newsmen the judge had suspended him from practice in his courtroom.

During the presentation of motions before the hearing itself began, Davis' attorney, John Mitchell of Omaha, motioned that the entire proceedings be quashed, listing seven reasons.

Among them Mitchell charged that the proceedings leading to the complaint against Davis had been "highly irregular" in that they were begun by the holding of a coroner's inquest that was spread over several weeks, was not open to the public and was closed to the defendant and his counsel.

Overruled

The judge overruled Mitchell's dismissal motion. The motion had also contended that Davis had been deprived of a fair opportunity to prepare for the preliminary hearing and also deprived of a fair opportunity to defend himself. Mitchell alleged that Davis' right to due process of law had been violated.

It also stated that "during the inquest dozens of witnesses were called on scores of extraneous illegal activities conducted in and about Hall County." It was the first time that the defense counsel had publicly referred to "extraneous activity."

Rumors of such extraneous activities, including certain vices, have been aplenty in the area since Mrs. Davis' death.

Chamber Concerned

In the city, chiefly the Chamber of Commerce and the Grand Island Daily Independent, have expressed great concern over the fact that the rumors are hurting innocent people.

Seven other witnesses have been subpoenaed by the prosecution for testimony. They are Irene Boehnke, who told a newsman she worked for a local insurance agency and discussed terms of a trip accident policy with Davis; Deputy Sheriff Gary Piel; Ivan D. Smith, an employe of Davis' at the Hobart Sales and Service Company; State Safety Patrol Investigator Donald Grieb; Mrs. Thomas B. Davis, the defendant's mother; Mrs. Cheryl Crane; and Stuart Tascoe.

Court Buries 'Monkey Law'

Washington (AP) — Arkansas' "monkey law," a lifeless vestige of the fundamentalist fervor of the 1920s, was buried Tuesday by the Supreme Court.

The law, adopted by statewide election in 1928, made it a crime to instruct students in the public schools and universities that man evolved from the apes and other species of life.

Justice Abe Fortas said that by seeking to suppress the teaching of evolution in public schools, the state impermissibly took a stand for a particular religious view and thereby violated the Constitution.

'There Is No Doubt'

"There is and can be no doubt that the First Amendment does not permit the state to require that teaching and learning must be tailored to the principles or prohibitions of any religious sect or dogma," Fortas wrote for the court.

Fortas said, "Fundamentalist sectarian conviction was and is the law's reason for existence." He added that the motivation undoubtedly was "to suppress the teaching of a theory which, it was thought, 'denied' the divine creation of man."

This was the court's major action as it ended a two-week recess. In other major decisions:

1. The court declined to review a New York federal court ruling that peaceful protesters of the Vietnam war may pass out leaflets and otherwise set up shop inside the big Port Authority bus terminal in New York City.

2. Edgar H. Smith Jr., cell block author on New Jersey's death row for 11 years, will have a chance to try to upset his 1967 conviction in the murder of a 15-year-old girl.

3. Convicted atom spy Morton Sobell will have to remain in prison until next August. The time he spent in custody awaiting trial with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in 1951 cannot be credited to effect his immediate release.

First Amendment

Fortas's opinion cut down the Arkansas law primarily on the finding it violated the first Amendment command that government may not itself foster any particular religion or religious theory.

Significantly, neither he nor the court used the occasion to promote the concept of academic freedom, to advance the rights of teachers to speak freely.

The Arkansas law was inspired by the Tennessee anti-evolution law that was tested at the trial of teacher John Thomas Scopes in 1925 at Dayton, Tenn.

MISSILE TALKS URGED

Washington (AP) — Soviet Prime Minister Alexei N. Kosygin was reported by authoritative sources Tuesday to have urged World Bank President Robert S. McNamara to persuade the Johnson administration to start talks on the reduction of nuclear missiles.

Kosygin's request was transmitted immediately to Washington and it was repeated publicly by Jacob Malik, the Soviet Union's ambassador to the United Nations, in a speech to the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday.

McNamara had a 1¾-hour conversation with Kosgin in the Kremlin Monday. The former U.S. secretary of defense was on his way to Afghanistan and Moscow reports said Kosygin asked him to call at the Kremlin.

U.S. sources said there is little if any prospect that the Johnson administration will engage in any such talks before it goes out of office in two months.

Malik, during the General Assembly's disarmament debate, said the Soviet Union was ready to start a "serious exchange of views" on the limitation of missile systems "without delay."

He virtually repeated the words used by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko before the assembly Oct. 3.

Winter Hits East Coast

By The Associated Press

Winter struck the East Coast a violent blow Tuesday, arriving almost six weeks early and lashing the land and coastal waters with brutal winds and blinding snow or rain.

The unusually early and severe storm raged up the coast from the Deep South Monday night, hammered the mid-Atlantic states early Tuesday then moved on to New England and northern New York.

Several deaths were attributed to the storm, and along the coast several small vessels were in distress as 60-knot winds whipped the sea into waves up to 35 feet high.

Nixon Appoints Harlow As Congressional Aide

New York (AP) — President elect Richard M. Nixon announced Tuesday he intends to appoint Bryce N. Harlow, a White House aide in the Eisenhower administration, as a special assistant to the president.

Nixon made the announcement of the first major appointment of his administration through a press aide as he settled into his Fifth Avenue apartment in storm-swept New York City, turning his attention to the nuts and bolts of the transfer of power.

Harlow, 52, of Arlington, Va., was a deputy assistant to President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was a key Nixon aide during the 1968 campaign.

Ron Zeigler, the aide, said Harlow will concern himself with "management of legislation and congressional affairs for President Nixon."

Harlow told newsmen at a briefing there will be a group of special assistants to the president in the new administration, but no single No. 1 man such as Sherman Adams when Eisenhower was president.

"I am quite optimistic, quite optimistic and sincerely so," Harlow said, "about working with the new Congress even though it will be controlled by the Democrats."

He said he did not anticipate any more difficulty working with the Democrats than President Eisenhower had.

Ray's Trial Delayed

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray won a postponement Tuesday until March 3 of his first-degree murder trial in last spring's assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The defendant was reported hopeful of doing better when the Republican national administration takes over early next year.

The state vigorously but vainly opposed the continuance granted by Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle in favor of Ray, a 40-year-old escaped convict.

'Trifling With Court'

"He's been here four months or better and it appears to me he's trifling with the court," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer.

"What assurances are there that at the last moment the defendant might not come in and say, 'I don't want this gentleman here.'"

Whereupon Dwyer nodded toward 6-feet-4 criminal lawyer Percy Foreman, who took over the defense Sunday night from Arthur Hanes, 52, former mayor of Birmingham, Ala.

In his written motion for a postponement Foreman declared: "This application is not made for delay but that justice may be done."

North Vietnamese Set Fire To Hamlet

Saigon (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops striking from jungled mountains east of Pleiku shelled a U.S. air base, attacked a South Vietnamese ammunition depot and set fire to a small hamlet early Wednesday, military spokesmen said.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, Communist forces shelled at least 12 towns and bases and launched several terrorist attacks, South Vietnamese spokesmen said. U.S. B52 Stratofortresses dropped hundreds of tons of bombs on Communist targets near Saigon, rattling windows and shaking buildings in the capital.

Near Pleiku in the central highlands Communist gunners fired about 25 rounds of 122mm rockets into the U.S. Army aviation facility at Camp Holloway, destroying one aircraft and three buildings, damaging a helicopter and two other structures and wounding two Americans.

At almost the same time, North Vietnamese soldiers attacked an ammunition dump three miles east of Pleiku and raided the village of Plei Boi nine miles east of the provincial capital.

A platoon of government soldiers beat off the attack on the depot and suffered no casualties, South Vietnemese spokesmen said.

B52s Bomb Key Points On Ho Chi Minh Trail

Saigon (UPI) — U.S. B52 bombers have been pounding key points along the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos every day since President Johnson ordered an end to all air raids on Norht Vietnam Nov. 1, informed American sources said Tuesday.

Other American planes also have stepped up attacks on the Communist supply lines. The Ho Chi Minh Trail is an elaborate network of paved roads and dirt tracks stretching hundreds of miles from North Vietnam to South Vietnam, via Laos and Cambodia.

70-Bushel Corn Estimate Holds

. . . Sorghum Dips To 58 Bushels

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Tuesday estimated Nebraska's 1968 corn crop at 303,100,000 bushels, a yield of 70 bushels to the acre. The same forecast was issued a month ago.

A crop that size would be three bushels to the acre less than in 1967, when farmers in the state binned 329,230,000 bushels. Most of the 1968 crop has been harvested.

The dry bean harvest prediction was trimmed to 1,800 pounds to the acre, down from 1,850 a month ago. Total production was pegged at 1,422,000, hundredweight, compared with 1,462,000 based on conditions Oct. 1.

The government observers dropped the sorghum intake estimate to 58 bushels to the acre for a total of 106,604,000 bushels. A month ago, the forecast was for an average yield of 62 bushels and a total production of 113,956,000 bushels.

Other estimates:

Soybeans — Total production 19,067,000 bushels, 23 to the acre. This was an increase from the 22 to the acre and total 18,238,000 last month.

Sugar Beets — Unchanged from a month ago, 17 tons per acre and total harvest of 1,224,000 tons.

DeWayne Hamilton, statistican at the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics in Lincoln, said the four-bushel-per-acre decline in grain sorghum prospects during the past month resulted from the green bug infestation. He said the full significance of the infestation had only recently come to light.

Frost also caught some fields, he noted.

The fall potato estimate was boosted to 260 hundredweight per acre, a total of 1,820,000 hundredweight. Last month the figures were 240 and 1,680,000.

60% Of Corn Crop Picked; Wheat 'Good'

By the Associated Press

Sixty per cent of Nebraska's corn crop has been picked, and 90% of grain sorghum has been harvested, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Normally about 75% of the corn would have been harvested by this time of year, according to the weekly crop review of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics. The sorghum harvest is about at its normal stage.

Stalk rot and downed ears have caused some corn harvesting problems and additional field losses, the division said.

Moisture content currently averages about 18% for corn, 14% for sorghum.

The soybean harvest is 98% completed, and only a few fields of sugar beets remain to be dug in the panhandle and southwest.

Winter wheat condition is mostly good to excellent, the report said.

Top soils are dry in portions of the southwest and southern Panhandle, and moisture is needed to diminish the threat of wind erosion.

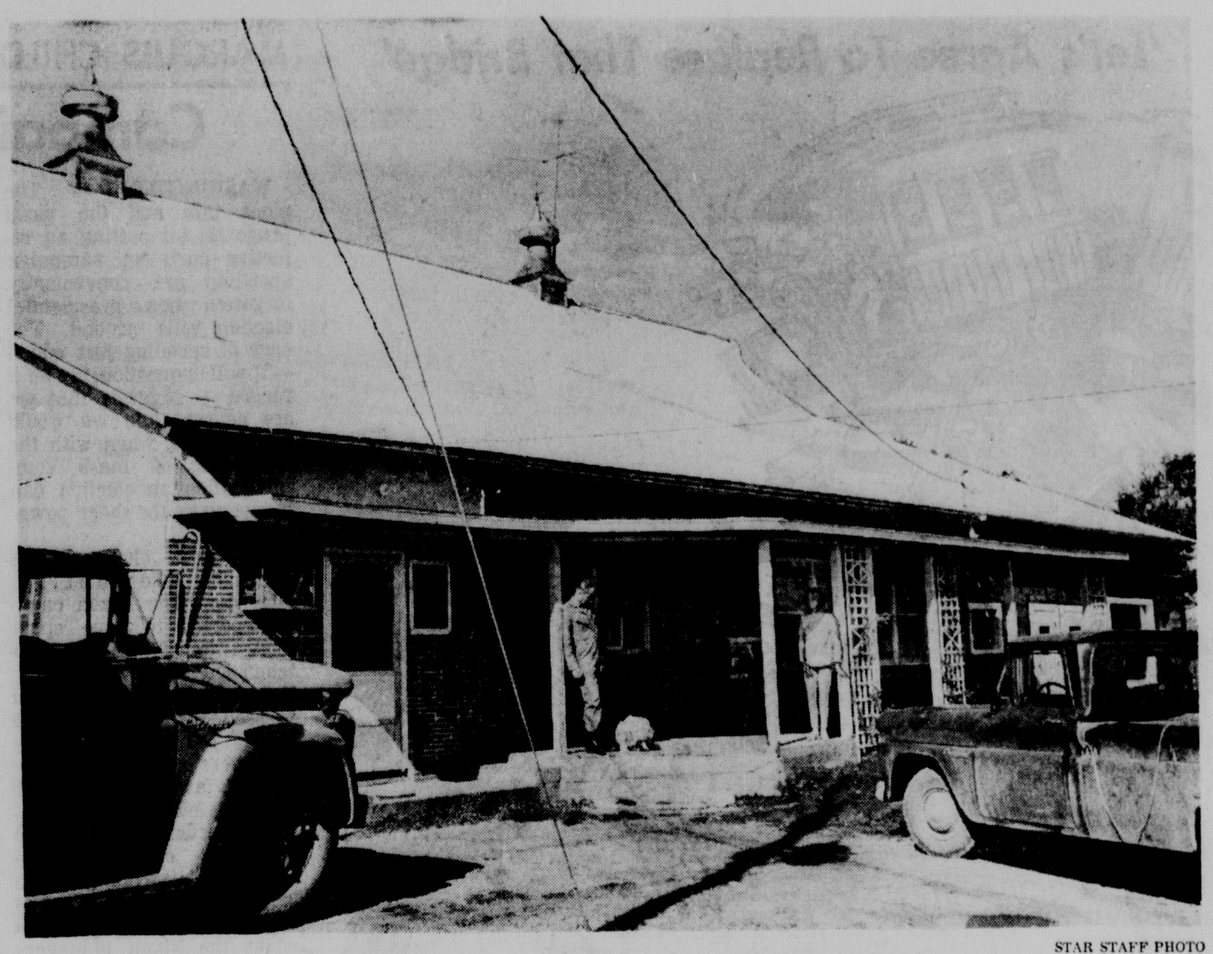

The intermittent rain and snow last week, while it slowed harvesting, made range and pasture feeds a little more palatable.

Moisture received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

Rokeby — "Were you brought up in a barn?"

If anyone ever throws that one at a member of the Gene and Mary Steinhausen family, he can snap back a healthy, "Yes, matter of fact, I was."

The Steinhausen barn, er house, er house-barn, is located a quarter-mile west of tiny Rokeby, which is about seven miles south of Lincoln.

Not that they live in a hayloft. The Steinhausens have a 28-by-33-foot apartment, including a living room, kitchen, two bedrooms, a bathroom and a utility room. From the inside, there is no feeling of being under the roof of a 70-by-70-foot barn. But when someone steps out the back door, he's likely to step into a herd of Jersey cattle.

Gene's father Mark Steinhausen, who grew up on the farm, thought up the idea. His father Roy had kept his family happy in a house about 50 yards from the barn, while running a dairy and sheep operation.

One of Mark's jobs as a youth in the 1930's was to take care of the sheep, whose feeding pens stood where the apartment stands now.

Cold Hike

He remembers that he often found it cold and uncomfortable, making that 50-yard hike on winter days. And in 1959, when he bought 80 acres of land and the barn from his father he thought, "Why not just build an apartment right in the barn?"

Where'd he get the idea? "I get ideas that come from nowhere," he quipped.

After quizzing the power and lighting companies, Steinhausen carried out his plan. The wall of the apartment is lined with four inches of fiberglass insulation and the ceiling with six inches. Odors? None, Steinhausen said.

Anyone who might snicker at the thought of living in a barn gets the short end of the laugh when the weather gets rough. During the colder parts of winter, the Jerseys are herded inside and stay there. Nobody bundles up to go out in the cold to tend to the cows; he simply steps through the back door and into the barn.

The arrangement has been especially nice when he's had a sick cow to take care of, Steinhausen said. "I'd get up every two or three hours during the night, put on my slippers, and go out and take care of her. I know I've saved at least two or three cows that way."

Grand Champ Jersey

Mark, his wife Voline and their younger son Randy have moved into Lincoln, and Gene and Mary Steinhausen moved into the apartment last spring. Randy, who this September exhibited the grand champion Jersey at the State Fair, is a freshman in pre-veterinary at the University of Nebraska.

Mark Steinhausen still manages the Jersey operation, and presently is building a 40-by-170-foot addition to the barn which he'll equip with the latest in milking equipment. One device will "electronically" ration out just enough feed to keep a cow still and contented while she's being milked, without any retainer guard to keep her in place.

Whatever the size, the Steinhausen house-in-a-barn is the only one in Nebraska, as far as he knows. He has had visitors who've seen similar setups in the northeast states and in Canada, as well as in the "old country," however, he said.

Expectably, the Steinhausens have to take a bit of kidding about their abode. "Yeah, we get a lot of kidding about living in a barn," Mark Steinhausen said, "but we tell them that we don't really — we've just got the cows living in the house."

Hastings College Given $600 Grant

Franck Sonato Leaves Audience Spellbound

The Lincoln Friends of Chamber Music series has produced a number of great performances. Surely the sonata recital by Bronislav Gimpel, violin, and Louis Crowder, piano, will be remembered as one of the fine artistic achievements in the Sheldon Memorial Gallery.

Some of the best — and some of the worst — sonata recitals occur when two soloists get together. Tuesday night's concert was one in which the two artists achieved a fine rapport in execution and temperament.

Well matched in ability and orientation, their program of three sonatas was at its best in the Franck A Major.

The fiery temperament, fleet ensemble playing, and technical proficiency of both musicians were evident also in the sonatas of Beethoven and Debussy.

Although Beethoven's Sonata in G Major, Op. 30, does not attain the stature of the Kreutzer, it has a charm and freshness which were evident in the sparkling interpretation.

Debussy's Sonata in G Minor is a product of his mature years; in fact, it was the last work he completed before his death in 1918. The fluidity and nuances were especially notable in the second movement.

Gimpel and Crowder showed a remarkable affinity for both the impressionism of Debussy and the mysticism of Franck.

However, the fervor and romantic intensity of the Franck Sonata, which leads to such a dramatic climax in the concluding rondo, left the audience spellbound at the conclusion of the performance. The artists were recalled to the stage several times by the continuing applause.

Three days of workshops and master classes at the University of Nebraska and at the Nebraska Music Teachers Association state convention in Omaha preceded their concert at the Gallery.

Both musicians are currently on the faculty at the University of Connecticut.

Girl, 18, Enters Innocent Plea To Dad's Death

Rushville (UPI) — Martha Bird Head, an 18-year-old Porcupine, S.D., girl, pleaded innocent in District Court here Tuesday to a charge of manslaughter.

The charge was brought against her in connection with the death of her father, John Bird Head, 67, on the evening of July 27 in Gordon.

A jury trial was set for Dec. 10 by District Judge Robert Moran of Alliance.

Miss Bird Head was returned to the Sheridan County jail here under $2,500 bond.

Death was apparently caused by a blow to the head with a small piece of lumber, investigating officers said after the incident last summer.

Hunters Discover Missing Safe In Field Near City

A safe reported missing from the Ashland Country Club was found by a group of hunters in a field about eight miles south of Lincoln, authorities reported Tuesday.

The safe had contained about $1,500 at the time of the theft, a country club spokesman said.

It was not immediately determined whether the safe had been opened since it was taken.

Lancaster County sheriff's deputies were investigating the incident early Wednesday morning.

Bet's Winner Not Difficult To Determine

Kansas City (AP) — It was no trouble determining who won the election bet between Wayne Harris and Wayne Williams.

Williams was resting comfortably in the wheelbarrow, and Harris was pushing it down U.S. 71 Tuesday.

"I bet Wayne here that Hubert Humphrey would be elected president," Harris panted.

In addition to the one-mile wheelbarrow ride, Williams collected an hour's worth of drinks in a nearby bar.

World's Finest Bourbon a 173-Year-Old Secret

CHICAGO, ILL.—Before you can call yourself the world's finest anything—you'd better have a case in your favor.

Jim Beam Bourbon has that "case."

The whole matter started with Jacob Beam—who would be 200 years old this year—and a secret he discovered.

The secret, in the case of Jim Beam Bourbon, goes back to 1795, and it is still hush-hush today. The secret lay in the heart of Kentucky where there was, and is today, the right combination for pleasure. The right land. The right climate: the perfect Bourbon formula.

In north central Kentucky, Jacob Beam found clean iron-free water—water that came from limestone springs considered the very finest. Beam set out to make Bourbon in this rolling country and he added his own pride.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The unusual agreement between President Lyndon B. Johnson and President-elect Richard M. Nixon in regard to current Vietnam foreign policy should give the American people something to think about. According to reports, some Americans in the civilian administrative ranks in Vietnam believe the cause there is lost for the allies.

They fear no military defeat nor any defeat at the peace talks table in Paris. But they feel that South Vietnam's refusal to date to participate in the peace talks will break the patience of the American people.

If that happens, they fear the U.S. will largely abandon its efforts in Vietnam, leaving the situation in the hands of the South Vietnamese government. The government, they believe, will not be prepared to assume this burden for another four to five years.

That could be one course of events but we can only hope that such is not the case. Despite the extent of our patience, Vietnam is the same issue today as it was a year ago or 10 years ago.

What the Johnson-Nixon accord tells us is that the policies of the past have served well the interests of the American people. This doesn't mean that the current administration has done a perfect job or that Nixon will change nothing when he takes over in January. But the President-elect does have confidence in the fundamental position we now occupy.

That position is that the cause of freedom is being served in Vietnam, not just the cause of a few million South Vietnamese. We are in Vietnam because we know that communism must be stopped from indiscriminate aggression against foreign nations.

The peace advocates can talk all they want to about the immorality of war and the inhumanity of killing but that doesn't change any of the facts. In the face of an obvious threat to your freedom and well-being, war is not and never has been immoral.

It is safe to assume that every U.S. citizen wants peace in Vietnam and none of us likes war but it is not the free world that has upset the peace hopes of nations. From the very beginning, North Vietnam communists have practiced subversion and aggression against South Vietnam.

South Vietnam is as much an independent nation as North Vietnam but the war critics in this nation never talk about that. What Nixon recognizes today and has recognized throughout his campaign is not a political matter, but a matter of the security of our country.

Russia has now demanded that the U.S. get out of the Mediterranean while she remains there as a major power and influence. Because she is a major power in the Black Sea, she argues, she has a right to be in the Mediterranean but we have no such claim.

That is the ridiculous kind of logic you get from communism and the kind of narrow-minded, prejudiced thinking that one often finds demonstrated among some naive people of this nation. Russia's Black Sea interests no more give her priority in the Mediterranean than our coastal interests give us rights throughout the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans.

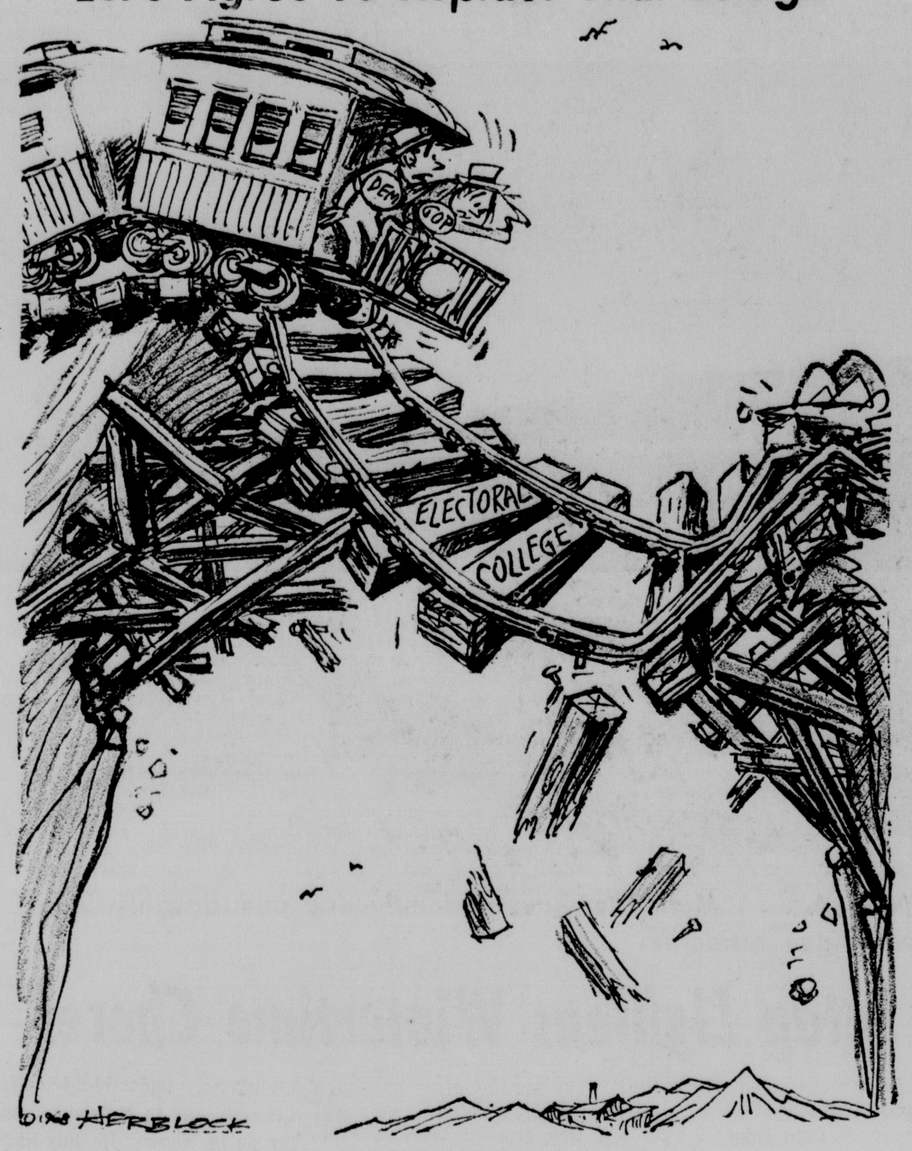

★

The matter simply demonstrates the aggressive nature of communism and its intent to engulf the entire world in its socialist ideology. The Middle East conflict between the Arab states and Israel demonstrates the same thing.

South Vietnam is a part of the same package. If patience defeats us in Asia, we will have told the communists that they can have the world so long as they are able to outwait us.

Present peace efforts in Vietnam may or may not produce the desired results. If they do not, Nixon will ultimately have to make his own policy but it is hoped that policy is not dictated to him by an American public that has lost, not really its patience, but its courage to stand up and fight for its freedom.

'Let's Agree To Replace That Bridge'

The Real Fans

Now we'll find out who the real fans are.

Not since 1961 have Nebraska football fortunes been so dim. The Huskers are on the mat following a 12-0 loss to lowly Kansas State. They could still finish 7-3 with victories over Colorado and Oklahoma, but losses in those games would mean a 5-5 finish and would be the worst under Coach Bob Devaney.

Let's go back to 1961 for a moment. That year, Nebraska managed to defeat North Dakota, Iowa State and Kansas State. There was a tie with Arizona. NU lost the rest, including one to Colorado in which the Huskers failed to get a first down. That was Bill Jennings' last year as NU coach. The next year, Devaney arrived on the scene. Nebraska went 9 and 2 — and the golden era of NU football was here.

Now . . . well, things don't look too bright for Big Red. Three league defeats, a sputtering offense, two tough road games ahead.

In 1961 the Nebraska stadium held just over 39,000 fans. Today more than 67,000 fans can get into the stadium. The difference between 39,000 and 67,000 represents the new fans created since Devaney and victory came to Lincoln.

The question now is whether the new fans are here to stay. Will they start staying away? Will they shed their red outfits? Such a move would be unthinkable to most Husker fans, those of us who lived through the miserable 40's and 50's. That kind of fan makes NU football a way of life. Now, maybe, we'll see what the Johnny-come-latelys are made of.

Let School Aid Stand

While Dr. Floyd Miller of the State Department of Education is right in the points he makes about several current matters in his field, his position needs to be tempered by the reality of public attitudes. He advocates a full funding of the state aid to education program, which would more than double the present $25 million a year going into the program.

There is no doubt that the state aid program is a most important one. The greatest hope of the future we have lies in the quality of our educational system. But there is another side to the picture — the side of taxpayer rebellion.

We are not at the point of rebellion but we may not be far away from it. The national elections evidenced a concern on the part of the citizenry about inflation and the degree of public spending.

While we have to be realistic about our needs, we must also consider the attitude of the taxpayer. Already, he will face a mounting cost at all levels of government. He is apt to find the state sales tax maintained at its current level rather than permitted to slip back to a flat 2 per cent.

Too, the state aid to education program is a new one and has provided substantial property tax relief. It is not proper to believe that the program must reach its maximum within the short period of one or two years.

It would seem that discretion at this point would favor retaining the state aid program exactly where it is. And it is pretty hard to argue that this is going to do any damage of real consequence to our schools. A full funding of the state aid program would not be keeping faith with voters who approved the income tax with assurances that it would not invite excessive state spending.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Campaign Spending Spree

WASHINGTON — The pious talk and the pious proposals for putting an effective curb on campaign spending are conveniently forgotten when a presidential election rolls around. The orgy of spending just ended — it will unquestionably be a record — suggests that we are nearer than we would like to think when with the techniques of mass communication an election can be swung by the sheer power of money.

The new element, the dominant element, is television. The Nixon camp is reported to have spent close to $15,000,000 on television and radio alone. Because they were hard pressed for money at the start, the Humphrey managers were able to commit far less time in the critical wind-up period.

The federal statute governing campaign contributions is virtually meaningless. How meaningless is shown by the cavalier way in which the Nixon managers passed over the Oct. 26 deadline for filing reports of campaign receipts and expenditures under the Corrupt Practices Act. This insured that the voters would have no opportunity to learn the names of the Nixon contributors and how much they contributed prior to Election Day.

It is in the area of television that, if the new Congress has any interest at all in reforms, fairly simple remedies are available. The networks hide behind the equal-time provision which works absurdly to give fractional candidates a right to compete with major party candidates. A formula could be worked out on the numerical basis of the standing of the parties in the previous election obviating the equal-time requirement.

With this barrier removed, the networks would be under compulsion to grant at least limited free time as a public service in a great national contest. At the very least, the way would be cleared for debate between the major candidates without the equal-time inhibition. In the dying hours of the last Congress, the Republicans filibustered to prevent any change in the law opening the way to a three-cornered Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace debate.

The big spending is when the operators for the several candidates go into the marketplace and compete for prime television time. Those are the evening hours when the fattest profits accrue from sponsored programs that have lately come in for wide criticism for their stress on violence.

An alert and active National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting, under the chairmanship of Thomas P. F. Hoving, has been pointing up the failure of the networks to give adequate coverage of the campaign in the hours of maximum viewing. There is nothing, Hoving said in a recent statement, to prevent a more thorough job of covering the campaign except the financial interests of the networks.

While television is the most conspicuous aspect of the spending orgy, it is only part of a system that has grown up with the money game tied into politics. The big contributors can shuffle their contributions in a variety of ways to get around the $5,000 limit imposed by the meaningless statute. The report filed by the Humphrey managers showed that 18 contributors gave or loaned $100,000 each, some upping this to $200,000.

Surely no one at this late date is naive enough to believe that the fat cats do not expect a return on their investment. There may be ardent partisans giving for the love of party. But time and again the rewards have been made evident after the returns are in. They come in an ambassadorship or some other fairly innocuous showy appointment. Far more important is the cash nexus and the regulatory agencies that rule on issues directly related to the big corporate contributors.

The Washington Post has shown how the executives of, say, a brokerage firm can be organized to make individual contributions and thereby circumvent the prohibition on direct corporate giving. Candidate Richard Nixon had assured the brokers in a letter intended to be private that his administration would see that the Securities and Exchange Commission took a more lenient view of the marketplace.

Spokesmen for the Democratic National Committee insist that all the reports required by law for the deadline of Oct. 26 were filed on time. They note that the law provides a penalty of one year in jail for failure to file and two years for wilful failure. Their big-money contributors made headlines.

Under pressure to make their lists available after the filing deadline, the Republicans replied that their staff was insufficient to do the job. Republican National Committee Treasurer J. William Middendorf said the delay was due to a last-minute influx of contributions for a total of $300,000. The Nixon top campaign staff is made up almost entirely of members of the Nixon law firm who surely know the law on filing returns.

The real issue is not disclosure, but spending, itself. Numerous remedies have been proposed over the years — an income tax deduction for small contributions, really meaningful restrictions on contributions, government financing for all or part of a campaign limited to three or four weeks. They are there if a new Congress cares to reflect on the biggest spending spree of all.

Bombing Halt

Ft. Riley, Kan.

The President's latest bombing halt has failed in its attempt to bring Hubert Humphrey into office. Perhaps now Mr. Johnson will realize that his inexcusable and intolerable act will not succeed in attaining peace in Vietnam. Undoubtedly it will do nothing but cost the lives of even more American sons and husbands.

With the roads in the north open, the communists can readily resupply their armies along the DMZ and in the south. No longer does the enemy have to contend with American bombers hampering the production and transport of war materials in North Vietnam. Now the armies in the south will have plenty of rockets to fire at churches, schools, air terminals and market places.

Mr. Johnson's attempt to disguise this vicious political move under the cloak of a desire for peace is neither convincing nor excusable. I cannot understand his daughter's "relief" at the news of his announcement. Perhaps she doesn't realize that her husband is now in even more peril, that he will now be facing a well armed and well supplied enemy.

The sooner the President realizes the enormity of his mistake and amends it, the safer America's sons will be. Let us pray that he corrects it before it is too late.

Community College

Lincoln, Neb.

I was sorry to see that the community college issue was defeated on the November 5 ballot. I felt this should have passed. There wouldn't have been much extra cost since no new buildings or dormitories needed to be built.

Being a high school senior, I know how confused many students are after high school. They aren't sure where they want to go or what they want to do. The community college would have given them a better start. And for many who weren't interested in going to a four-year university, this would still have been a chance for them to get some type of higher education.

Grateful For Aid

Polk, Neb.

I wish to offer a tip of the hat to a knight of the road. Enroute to my class at the University of Nebraska one morning this past week, I hit an icy spot on the Interstate near Utica. My car went into a spin, out of control and into the ditch. While I was not hurt, I was badly shaken up.

To my rescue came a man enroute to Waco, driving a grain truck. He walked across the highway, rendered assistance and drove my car to a safe position.

I did not get his name. I wish to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation.

I'm thankful at this Thanksgiving season for people such as this.

Campaign 1972 Began The Day After Election

WASHINGTON — Before the 1968 election tote boards could be cleared, the 1972 campaign began.

A New York outfit called HOPE (Help Organize People Early) mailed out, for arrival on or shortly before Election Day, green and white buttons bearing this inscription, "EMK 1972." These are the initials of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

With the button came a small card saying, "This is a very special button. It was made to be worn on the morning of November sixth. It will serve as our sign of hope on that morning and for the next four years."

This should give President-elect Richard M. Nixon some slight idea of what he will be up against between now and the time of the next nominating conventions four years hence.

New presidents usually accept the idea that much of their first terms must be devoted to laying the foundation for second-term campaigns. But to be hit by opposition material even before the vote-counting is over is a new high in anticipatory politics.

There is no reason to believe that this first 1972 volley was fired with Ted Kennedy's knowledge or consent. There are, however, a number of people who will work in his behalf for the next four years with little or no encouragement from him.

To write "finis" to Hubert Humphrey's political career at this point would be premature. He talks of possibly returning to his former profession of teaching.

In any case, there is no reason to worry about him financially. He has several well-heeled patrons who would underwrite almost any sort of activity he might undertake. One of these close friends, Robert Short, treasurer of the Democratic National Commission, is in the process of purchasing the American League baseball club in the nation's capital, the Washington Senators.

How about 3-H for club manager? He is an ardent sports fan, the work would keep him before the public and he could turn up in the 1972 campaign with an endless variety of new sports idioms.

During the campaign just ended, Humphrey, the sports fan, on occasion would mix football and baseball in the same analogy, leaving the fans in his audiences somewhat confused.

One day, after a mirthful mixup of football and baseball terms, a jaundiced political observer observed, "Thank heavens he doesn't know anything about lacrosse."

Russia Looms As Nixon's Biggest Problem; Urgency Of Non-Proliferation Pact Stressed

WASHINGTON — Biggest problem facing Richard Nixon when he becomes president will be relations with the only other nation which has a nuclear stockpile — Soviet Russia.

It is also the nation with the biggest arsenal of missiles — next to ours — the second biggest navy in the world, and a standing army bigger than ours.

One week after he became president, Lyndon Johnson decided that if the two most powerful nations in the world — the USA and USSR — could cooperate, there could be world peace.

Since then he has worked hard at this policy, and on the whole it has paid off. The Russians have curbed their plutonium stockpile, lived up to the test-ban treaty, signed a very important non-proliferation pact, signed a consular pact which we wanted more than they, opened a direct airline between Moscow and New York, and expressed their willingness last spring to discuss a limitation of missiles and of anti-ballistic missile networks.

Incidentally, we have found the Russians scrupulous in living up to treaty agreements. Satellites observation is such that our intelligence services have an excellent idea what Soviet missile strength is and what tests are being made. Ever since the Cuban missile crisis, we have found that the Russians have been careful about their statements. In the recent Vietnam truce talks, they did not promise too much, but made good on what they did.

Nixon, however, will approach Soviet-American relations with some handicaps. He has urged postponement of Senate action on the vitally important non-proliferation pact. He has said during the recent campaign that he favored going ahead with the $50 billion anti-ballistic missile network; also wants to increase the missile stockpile. This is just the opposite of the Johnson policy.

Previously Nixon had visited Russia, engaged in the so-called "Kitchen Debate" with Nikita Khrushchev which he used in his subsequent election campaign to put Khrushchev in a bad light. The Russians had gone out of their way to give Nixon a rousing welcome, and remember vividly how Nixon turned a gesture of Russian hospitality into a matter of political expediency.

They also remember how he climbed to political power by falsely claiming that such non-communists as Rep. Jerry Voorhis and Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California were pro-communist. All of this gives the new President a reputation for insincerity and political expediencey with the government with which he must now do business if he is to continue the present policy of Soviet-American peace-keeping for the world.

However, the Russians are pragmatic people. They also recognize pragmatism when they see it, and they see it in Mr. Nixon.

Shortly before he was nominated at Miami Beach, he approached the State Department with a view to visiting Moscow. The Russians agreed. This is not hearsay, but fact. Then, following the Czech invasion, Nixon decided it would not be smart politics for him to go to Russia, and the trip was called off.

However, you can be pretty sure the Russians will still talk to Nixon. They'll probably keep their fingers crossed and be more wary than with LBJ whom they had come to trust. But the basic point is that the Russians, even including most of the hardliners, believe that the future of world peace depends on cooperation between the two super-powers.

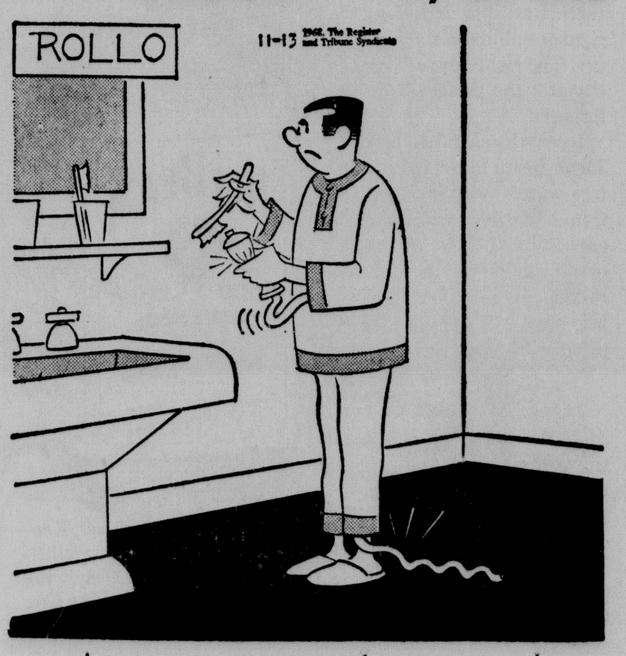

They recognize that the United States and the Soviet Union now have very similar problems, even down to students. In Prague the Czech students have been rioting against Moscow very much as Mexican students were rioting against the United States. The Russians will also deftly remind you —when you criticize their armed invasion of Czechoslovakia -- that the United States put 20,000 troops into the tiny Dominican Republic only a short time ago for exactly the same reason the Russians went into Czechoslovakia: namely refusal to let a foreign ideology get planted in a country very close to one's own.

☆ ☆ ☆

The question of Nixon's cooperation with Russia will first come to a head if President Johnson calls a special session of the Senate to ratify the nuclear non-proliferation pact. He has been seriously considering such a move.

Jockeying For Unicam Leadership Posts To Begin Soon

By Associated Press

Although not part of the formal agenda, jockeying for leadership positions in the 1969 Legislature can be expected to mark the two assemblies of lawmakers scheduled in the next month or so.

State senators will gather Monday for the biennial two-day meeting of the Legislative Council. Reports on studies made by Legislative Council committees since the 1967 session will be formally offered at that time.

Again in December, lawmakers will assemble for a special session which Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has promised to call.

As is customary in advance of a regular biennial legislative session, senators will engage in private talks about who should get the major legislative posts — as speaker, chairman of the Committee on Committees, and chairman of the Legislative Council. Soft-sell campaigning by senators aspiring to the posts also develops customarily.

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine currently is speaker; Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly is chairman of the Legislative Council, and Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont is chairman of the Committee on Committees.

Sen. Rasmussen was elected to the Railway Commission in last week's general election and will resign from the Legislature with two years remaining of his term.

Traditionally, the top legislative officials hold their positions for only two ears.

Persons mentioned speculatively as prospects for speaker include Sen. Warner, Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point, and Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha.

The rotation tradition does not apply to standing committee chairmen.

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings has served as Budget Committee chairman for eight years. Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton has headed the Revenue Committee also for eight years.

Three 1967 committee chairmen will not return in January.

Sen. Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt, who headed the Public Health and Welfare Committee, was defeated for re-election.

Sen. Dale Payne of Bellevue, chairman of the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee, and Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City, who headed the Salaries and Claims Committee, did not seek re-election.

Terry Reports Little Opposition To Plans

State Sen. Terry Carpenter said Tuesday he has received "very little opposition" from county assessors to his proposals to drastically revise property tax administration.

Carpenter, chairman of the Legislature's interim study committee on city-county operations, held a public hearing on 18 proposed bills for submission to the next legislative session in January.

The bills, which will also be presented to the legislators when they meet here next Monday and Tuesday to review the work of all the study committees, would give the state tax commissioner greater control over county assessors.

The Scottsbluff senator said the bills would be presented without the committee's recommendations and more public hearings held later this month.

Purpose of the proposals, Carpenter said, is to upgrade the assessment and collection of property taxes. He also said they would place the "burden of proof" upon the shoulders of the county boards if they should choose to override the assessors' valuations.

Earlier in the year, the State Supreme Court ruled the State Board of Equalization must present "substantial proof" for rejecting county property valuations. This year the board accepted without change valuations from all 93 counties.

Among the bills discussed at the hearing were ones to:

—Establish a division of property taxation within the state tax commissioner's office with authority to administer and enforce laws on state supervision of local property tax administration.

—Authorize the tax commissioner to set standards for appraising and assessing property and to take over the assessment duties of the county if these standards are not met.

—Create standards and tests which assesors would be required to pass before they would be eligible to hold office.

—Require counties to publish information on tax-exempt real estate and place them on the tax rolls. Carpenter said this would give the Legislature an idea of the value of properties under exempt status.

—Require counties to set tax levies on or before Sept. 1 of each year.

—Set minimum salary standards for county assessors.

Noel Smith, NU Engineer, Retiring

Noel L. Smith is retiring after 20 years as construction engineer at the University of Nebraska.

During the period, Smith has supervised the construction and remodeling of some 25 buildings on campus, including residence hall complexes, academic facilities and laboratory structures.

Smith will be honored at a coffee Wednesday afternoon at NU's physical plant building.

A 1926 graduate of the University, Smith worked with the Parsons Construction Co., the Nebraska and Jackson County, Missouri, highway departments, and in a supervisory position with U.S. government emergency programs before joining the university staff.

Council To Seek Federal Funds For Transit Study

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday voted to spend up to $1,500 to prepare an application for federal matching money to finance a technical mass transit study.

The study, which would probe into solutions for public transportation problems in Lincoln, was recommended by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's bus service committee.

The citizen's committee was created by the mayor to deal with a situation resulting from a decrease in bus service by Lincoln City Lines, a private firm holding a city franchise.

Unanimous Vote

By unanimous vote, the council approved a resolution authorizing the expenditure of not more than $1,500 in hiring a consulting firm to prepare an application — which would designate the scope of the study — to the federal Department of Transportation.

Approval of the application would mean the government would provide funds to cover two-thirds of the total cost of the study. The one-third city share can be provided partly in "in kind" services.

It was noted that a mass transit study prepared for Wichita Falls, Texas, cost about $200,000.

$25 To $45,000

City officials, however, said that consultants had advised that such a study for Lincoln might cost in the $25.000 to $45,000 range, with the federal government picking up two-thirds of the cost.

Although there was some discussion of exploring other means to solve bus service problems, council members decided that an application for funds to conduct a comprehensive study was the most appropriate alternative.

"Compared with the impact of the problem and what the total cost is going to be," the city should spend the $1,500 in advance of a possible federal grant, said Councilman John Comstock.

Qualify For Funds

Ross Martin, bus committee chairman, noted that a technical study would qualify Lincoln at a later date for federal funds with which to purchase transportation equipment or to subsidize a private operation.

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger cast doubt on whether Lincoln City Lines will even continue its present level of service.

"After analyzing their operation the past five or six years, I have no doubt that they're going to walk out on you," he told the council.

The council indicated the city will try to meet a December deadline for applying for federal funds appropriated this fiscal year.

Dance Rules Change Sought

A Lincoln entertainment promoter, James Dier, Monday asked the City Council to remove dance hall age restrictions.

City code provisions now allow only 14 through 18-year-olds in teenage private clubs, and Dier claimed the prohibition against persons 19 and older hurts business.

The cost of renting a public facility for a private dance party is too prohibitive, he said.

"There is a need for proper dancing facilities," according to Dier, who said he intends to open one.

He observed that "when Lincoln was 75,000 in population, we had three of the finest dancing facilities in the midwest."

Council members told Dier to consult with the city attorney's office in drafting an amending ordinance.

In other action, although not required to do so, the council recommended approval of an application to the state by Wiesner Distributing Co., Inc., for a wholesale liquor license at 544 J.

The State Liquor Control Commission does not require local governing bodies to recommend on wholesale license applications.

If the application is approved by the state, Wiesner, a Pabst Blue Ribbon beer distributor, would be Lincoln's first liquor wholesaler.

It was reported that the distributor intends to start with a line of domestic wines.

The city would collect a $1,000 annual occupation tax on the wholesale license.

The council killed an ordinance providing for a change of zone from F restricted commercial to G local business on the south side of O St. between 33rd and 35th.

Applicant Daniel Roland had proposed to build a combination photographic studio and residence on the site.

Although voting to indefinitely postpone the change of zone, Councilman Tom Allman said he would introduce an ordinance to allow photo studios as permitted uses in the F restricted commercial districts.

'2 Chinas' Possibility Left Open

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The United States declared Tuesday that the supporters of Red China were automatically excluding Peking from a seat in the United Nations by insisting that the Chinese Nationalists must first be expelled.

U.S. Ambassador J. R. Wiggins told the General Assembly that this provision alone required the rejection of Peking's bid, no matter how U.N. members felt about participation of the Chinese Communists in the world organization.

Wiggins appeared to be leaving the door open for a possible "two Chinas" solution, although he did not specifically recommend such a formula.

The U.S. delegate told the assembly that Washington would continue to make every effort to return mainland China to the family of nations, but that "the great issue of Communist China's future reconciliation with the world is not now before this assembly."

Grand Jury Hears Story Of Nixon Plot

New York (AP) — A unidentified man who allegedly tipped off police to a plot against the life of President-elect Richard M. Nixon spent 90 minutes before a grand jury Tuesday.

Earlier, hundreds of spectators had jammed Brooklyn's Criminal Court as three heavily guarded defendants appeared for a hearing.

Accused of the plot, and of trying to induce the informant to actually be the trigger man in Nixon's assassination, are an immigrant from Yemen, 43-year-old Ahmed Rageh Namer, and his sons, Hussein, 20, and Abdo, 19.

In addition to the informant, described only as a 36-year-old man with an Arabic name, the grand jury heard a policeman who took the informant's telephone tip concerning the alleged plot, and the officers who seized the Namers.

Drug System Told

Irwin S. Chesen To Be Replaced At Cornhusker

Chesen said Tuesday that his duties as manager will end Nov. 30.

James Duchscherer, general manager of Radisson and formerly with the Schimmel Hotels, is interviewing managerial applicants.

At the time of the purchase, Radisson officials said there would be no personnel changes at the hotels.

Chesen is a son-in-law of A. Q. Schommel, one of the three brothers who formerly owned the Cornhusker, the Blackstone in Omaha and the Lassen in Wichita.

LAP Chiefs Back Calloway; 2 Aides Reinstated

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

John Calloway, the controversial deputy director of the Lincoln Action Program, Tuesday night received a vote of confidence from the board of directors as it acted to change his employe status from "probationary" to "regular" employe.

The 17-1 vote of 26 board members present approved the recommendation of LAP executive director Art May to "end the probationary period" of Calloway and to "place him on regular employe status."

Some 80 persons witnessed the board action that had been delayed for several weeks and frequently discussed in closed board meetings amid controversy about his personality and appropriateness of his actions concerning LAP matters.

Reinstated

The discussion and vote concerning Calloway followed a report by May that he had Tuesday afternoon reinstated the two neighborhood aides previously terminated by LAP.

The board had voted last week not to approve its personnel committee's report upholding the terminations last month of Mrs. Jeannine Kessler and Mrs. Danna Kolarik but had taken no action on their employment status.

May said he reversed his position concerning the two women because he found "very clear evidence" that LAP had not been following appropriate personnel procedures or good administrative practices in terms of evaluating employes and pointing out employe weaknesses.

Opportunity

He said the two, satisfied with the proposal, would start back to work Wednesday with "adequate supervision, direction and training. They will have a honest opportunity to demonstrate their abilities to succeed as neighborhood aides."

The board did not act or comment on May's report.

May said that he "probably should have reached the conclusion earlier" about poor procedures but was "weighing between weak practices and two aides who I did not have confidence were doing their jobs . . . Now they will have a period of time to prove whether they are capable of doing their job."

The aides reportedly were fired for not following directions of supervisors, primarily in neighborhood organization for community action.

Defer Action

Board members deferred action on a policy of delegating hiring and firing responsibilities to division coordinators on the LAP staff until the board personnel committee reports on recommendations for revised personnel practices and procedures.

The LAP board heard testimony from members and persons in the audience both in support and in opposition to Calloway and discussed his status in an open session after a move to close the meeting failed on a 5-13 vote.

Mrs. Hulda Roper, a board member and Lincoln policewoman asked for an executive session "to discuss things that should not be brought before this audience." She reported that she had conducted a personal investigation of the LAP office and staff and had compiled a 21-page report which had been submitted to the Lincoln Police Department.

'Subversive'

She said she had conducted the investigation because of evidence of "subversive activity." The contents of the report were not disclosed during the meeting. No charges will be filed in connection with the report, she said.

Calloway, cited by several persons as a "champion of the poor," for his actions in getting filled the hole dug for a new fraternity house, after plans were abandoned and taking an interest in local community groups and directing the VISTA volunteers.

The personnel committee was "looking for an advocate of the poor in this city who would bring in fresh ideas and wouldn't be afraid to stand up and be counted," declared a committee member Neil Sipp. Calloway has "discharged those responsibilities we wanted him to do when we hired him."

'Vital Asset'

Although neighborhood aides are not under Calloway's supervision, all but two signed a statement saying he is a "vital asset" and had brought new drive and directions to the LAP program. "His personality and method of approach is different and challenges us to bring about the objectives," the aides said.

May pointed out that the deputy, early in his employment, had been instrumental in quieting restive youths last summer in connection with an incident at a dance, meeting with the youths, their parents, police, city and neighborhood officials May said he had encouraged him to follow the incident and act for LAP.

Calloway was accused by persons in the audience, including two ex-LAP staff members, of "causing dissension," acting in matters unrelated to a poverty program's concern, authorizing unequeal expenditures for block parties held in the city, threatening employes about contacting the police, and "advocating immorality," "incompetence" and "immaturity."

The deputy answered each of the charges and explained his philosophy of "redirecting the anger of people in poverty" to "positive action" in helping themselves. He denied that the organization of poor people in Lincoln is "to riot," but that the goal was community action, such as the attempts to establish a neighborhood community center in the southwest Lincoln area.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

A sunny blue sky morning. The trade wind is blowing on golden Kaanapali beach, The Hawaiian island of Maui.

"The loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean," wrote Mark Twain.

The tour director gathered us around. "Bags outside your door at 10:30. Departure for the airport at noon. Be sure to eat," he warned us. "You won't get to your hotel until evening."

"Where are our happi coats?" asked a lady tourist.

☆ ☆ ☆

The happi coats are getting to be a hot point with our group. This is the $359 tour—$359 for eight days, seven nights, West Coast to Hawaii and back again on chartered World Airways 707 jet.

All kinds of goodies are on the brochure: Gourmet meals. Free cocktails. Festive departure in the Aloha Lounge. Travel tote bag. AND—"a free tropical Happi coat to wear on board."

Somehow the happi coats did not get on board.

We are a suspicious bunch. Did somebody cop our happi coats? The tour director answers the question each day. He's beginning to sweat a little.

"The problem," he said earnestly, "is that the happi coats are in Los Angeles. We've sent for them. They'll catch up with us."

Oh yeah? We are waiting grimly.

☆ ☆ ☆

Of the more-than-a-million people who come to the lovely islands, eight of 10 on the first time around go by tour.

On this eight-day tour, there is no time for fooling around.

"We get off the airplane and proceed immediately for the boat ride on the Wailua river," said the guide. "To the hotel at 5:30. Dinner at the hotel. Bags outside your door at 8 a.m.

"Proceed to the end of the island. The wet and dry caves. Back to the airport for departure. One stop at the Sea Shell for lunch."

☆ ☆ ☆

The 135 people on the World Airways charter jet are divided into groups. We are "Red Group"—36 people.

While our bags go outside the door, Blue Group is coming in. Green Group is touring in the limousines that Gold Group will take over as they get out.

There are eight similar tours going each week just with this one company. I can think of five similar companies offhand.

"Do you think we'll get the happi coats?" asked the lady. "It says on the brochure we get them." (We all carry the brochure. Checking to see that we get full mileage.)

"Any time now, ma'am," said the tour director. There was perspiration on his forehead. It wasn't that hot this morning.

☆ ☆ ☆

To take care of these tours, hotels are popping up all over the outer islands — Hawaii, Maui, Kauai. Even untouched Molokai is building. At Waikiki, the hotels are solidly across the beach. Some twenty high-rise are going up to the morning thud of piledrivers.

"There is no law that says when piledrivers may begin," says the morning Honolulu Advertiser sadly. "A lady phoned our office today to say the piledrivers woke her up at 7 a.m."

☆ ☆ ☆

The tour limousines seat 12 people. Up the mountains to the volcanoes. "The lava flow of 1857 was most destructive. You can see it from here." Snap go the cameras.

"The green tall plants along the road are sugar cane." Snap.

"On our left is the mission church. This site was the home of Kamehameha the Great who is buried in a secret grave in one of the caves near here." Snap.

☆ ☆ ☆

An outer island hotel man said: "We aren't crowded like Waikiki, but we have to go to high rise. With all these people coming on tour — (it's 80% of our business) — they couldn't get to the dining rooms if we spread out."

"Don't forget the happi coats," said the lady tourist. "I wont," promised the tour director. "Remember. Bags outside the door at 8:30."

Pahl Receives Legion Of Merit

Capt. Herschel A. Pahl, professor and chairman of the Department of Naval Science at the University of Nebraska, was awarded the Legion of Merit at a ceremony Tuesday afternoon before the battalion of Naval ROTC midshipmen which he commands.

A Navy man since 1942, Capt. Pahl was cited for exceptionally meritorious service as deputy chief of the National Strategic Target List Division, Joint Strategic Target Planning Staff, from May 22, 1964 through June, 1968.

A native Nebraskan Capt. Pahl attended the University of Nebraska for two years and later was graduated from Kearney State. He was appointed to head NU's NROTC program Sept. 1.

Judicial Reform Package Outlined

By Associated Press

State Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln Tuesday outlined a three-point "judicial reform package" for introduction in the 1969 Legislature aimed primarily at abolishing justice of the peace courts in Nebraska.

"What began as a general inquiry into the possible abolition of the justice of the peace courts in Nebraska has now expanded into a much more comprehensive judicial reform proposal," Luedtke said.

He said meetings with lawyers, judges and laymen have dealt not only with eliminating J. P. courts but more specifically with "practical and workable alternatives should they be abolished."

The three-point "plan of action:"

—A constitutional amendment abolishing J.P. courts and providing "the judicial power of the state shall be vested in a Supreme Court, district courts, county courts and such other courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be created by law.

The amendment, which would be left to voters discretion in 1970, would mean county courts could be organized in districts and administered under a state court system like the district courts, Luedtke said.

—Legislation abolishing the township justice of the peace and designating him "chairman of the township board" and spelling out reporting and accounting procedures for all J.P. courts subject to an annual audit by the state auditor.

—A request for a legislative interim study committee on judicial reform of courts of limited jurisdiction.

The legislation eliminating the justice of the peace courts "which as a practical matter do not serve a judicial function . . . would close the door on any possible abuse under the present fee system so long as it is still in use," Luedtke said.

The earliest any measure could be put into effect would be 1972, except for the auditing procedures, Luedtke said.

The Lincoln lawmaker also reported he is considering a fourth proposal to amend the Constitution, allowing the Legislature to add to the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction cases "deemed necessary without resorting to an individual constitutional amendment every time a specific case occurs."

Luedtke said an upcoming "Nebraska Law Review" will spell out results of an in-depth study of J.P. courts in Nebraska conducted by a legislation class team at the University of Nebraska College of Law last year.

On his proposals, he promised "some very interesting and informative testimony will be given to the Legislature when the matter comes up for public hearings next year."

School Board OKs Plans For Huntington School Addition

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Preliminary plans for a cafeteria and gymnasium addition to Huntington School were approved by the Board of Education Tuesday.

The addition, tentatively scheduled for construction in early spring, is the first phase of a three-part plan for modernizing and expanding the Huntington facility.

The proposed structure, containing nearly 10,000 sq. ft., is to be located between the two existing buildings at the Huntington site and will be connected in some manner to both of them.

The addition will include a kitchen, a dining area with a portable stage and gymnasium.

Second Phase

The second phase is to be a classroom building constructed west of the existing buildings. Classrooms would be built around a large instructional materials center with access from each room.

The third phase, following demolition of the existing buildings, would include a kindergarten, administrative wing and boiler room added on the west of the cafeteria-gymnasium building.

Design Hampered

Design of the total scheme has been hampered by a water line which runs between the existing buildings and which cannot be crossed or removed. The final plan would locate all new structures west of the water line.

Architect R. O. Freeman did not give a cost estimate of the cafeteria-gymnasium addition, but it is expected that the construction and part of the equipment would require at least $200,000 the amount included in the 1968-69 budget for the Huntington addition.

Board members generally decided that the school should be air conditioned when it is completed and indicated that the cafeteria might be designed for "less-institutionalized syle" of eating.

Rousseau Addition

The board also was advised about the progress of developing educational specifications for a one-section addition at Maude Rousseau School and authorized Supt. John Prasch to establish a timetable and consult with architects about a contract for designing the addition.

Prasch pointed out that the specifications will attempt to take into account changes in teaching methods that have a bearing on facilities and will describe various activities that must take place in the building, such as lecture or group viewing, large group viewing, TV viewing, discussion, individual study, committee work, listening to mechanical aids, small group explanation, rythmics and culminating activities.

Prasch indicated that additional land may be needed at the site. He said that the $2,988 per acre paid for the present Maude Rousseau site "seems a little high" for the time it was purchased.

Almost one-third of the land is unusable in its present condition.

Junior College

Commenting on the loss of the vote on establishing a community-junior college within the school district, administrative assistant Don Ferguson estimated that the issue probably will receive 54% of the vote when it becomes official.

The issues needed a 55% majority to pass.

Ferguson suggested that the voters wanted to keep the present tax system but did not want any increase in their taxes. He also pointed out that the timing for the release of the University of Nebraska budget request "didn't help."

Prasch told board members that the vote apparently indictates "we are not communicating with the total community as well as we think we are."

'Credibility Gap'

The outcome also suggests a "credibility gap" in that the "people have challenged our intentions." Prasch urged that "we do what we can to narrow that credibility gap."

Prasch also pointed out to "say we can do the same things anyway as proposed for the community-junior college is to ignore the structure of aids available to the local taxpayers."

The district also is running the "risk of a major program of this kind being duplicated in the proposed state plan for higher education," he said.

Patrons Tuition Rates For '68-'69 Are Established By School Board

Patrons tuition rates for 1968-69 were established at $588 per year for elementary children and at $742 per year for secondary students by the Board of Education Tuesday.

The tuition rates are based on actual school costs for the 1967-68 school year, reported Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog.

Other tuition rates set by the board for the year included kindergarten, $294; educable mentally handicapped: kindergarten, $588, grades 1-6, $1,777, grades 7-12, $1,485; acoustically handicapped: kindergarten, $724, full-time, $1,449; orthopedically handicapped, $4,116; homebound, $1,283.

Den Hartog pointed out that the rates reflect per pupil costs and are used in the calculation of the state funds that should be reimbursed to the school district for special education program expenditures.

No one would be charged tuition for orthopedically handicapped children, Den Hartog said, indicating that the district has no tuition students for that program now. The high rate reflects an enrollment drop last year, with higher per pupil costs, than the previous year.

Closer Teacher-Business Ties Recommended

A "closer working relationship" between the Lincoln schools business education teachers and administrators and the "business world" was recommended to the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday.

Business education consultant Buford Jones proposed the closer relationship in a report on the business education curriculum in the schools.

He suggested that the link could be accomplished by establishing an advisory committee of persons in the Lincoln business community to meet periodically with the staff and arrange for released time for business teachers to spend in selected businesses in the city to see what specific people have to do to fulfill their jobs.

The relationship would help to make business educations more relevant to the students enrolled, keep the teachers up to date on new techniques, machines and requirements, and aid in counseling career-oriented students, Jones told the board.

Other recommendations to strengthen the program in business education included:

—Provide more time and attention for placement and follow-up of graduates.

—Devise better ways to attract capable students into business education courses.

— Develop a comprehensive cooperative work experience program in relation to the curriculum.

—Provide more opportunity for training adults in business education.

—Strengthen the data processing instructional program.

—Provide more time and money for preparation of instructional media.

—Convert entirely to electric typewriters in classrooms first in the senior high schools, then in the junior highs.

Jones presented a report on the development of instructional media for business education courses, which showed how tape recorders, video tape machines and films could be used to individualize instruction, improve the quality and provide opportunities for advancement on the basis of achievement.

Programmed instruction, such as multiple listening centers, films, slides and video tapes, increases a teacher's capacity for aiding students and maximizes the usefulness of available equipment, Jones said.

Introduction of such media in the schools has enhanced instruction, Jones declared, indicating that it has also encouraged teachers to upgrade their knowledge and teaching techniques.

Carpenter To Ask Legislative Action On Petition Rights

By JAMES JOYCE
United Press International

State Sen. Terry Carpenter said Tuesday he will ask the next session of the Legislature to "take whatever steps are necessary" to determine if voters have the right to petition on revenue matters.

The Scottsbluff senator said the recent Supreme Court opinion on the validity of the anti-income tax petition indicated voters might not have the right to initiate referendum and initiative petitions to prohibit the Legislature from raising taxes.

"The court has brought this question up," said Carpenter, "and I think it's our job to get the matter cleared up."

One way in which this might be done, he said, would be for the Legislature to pass a state property tax law. The attorney general then would be directed to file a suit challenging the constitutionality of the law.

One of the issues of the suit, Carpenter said, would be whether the people have the right to petition on revenue matters.

The state property tax was abolished in the 1966 election when voters approved an amendment which had been petitioned onto the ballot.

Carpenter said he personally feels voters should have the right to petition on revenue matters. However, he said, until the matter is settled by the Supreme Court, the Legislature will be in a bad position as far as tax legislation is concerned.

On a similar matter, Carpenter said he is opposed to having the sales tax rate retained at 2.5%.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has said he will call the Legislature into special session in December and ask it to keep the present sales tax rate.

The rate is scheduled to drop automatically to two per cent on Jan. 1.

Carpenter said Tiemann will have a "hard time" getting the Legislature to go along with him.

"This administration gave no indication the rate would stay at 2.5% before the election," Carpenter said, "and I think it ought to drop to two per cent."

Carpenter said Tiemann should have told the people he was considering keeping the present sales tax rate before the vote on the proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the state income tax.

"They (the people) weren't voting on the sales tax rate," he said. "If they had known beforehand, it might have turned out differently."

The anti-income tax amendment was rejected by a 2-1 margin at the general election.

At a news conference last week, Tiemann said he didn't mention the possibility of asking the Legislature to keep the 2.5% rate because he didn't feel it was an issue. He said the issue was the sales-income tax system itself and not the rates.

However, Tiemann said later the retention of the income tax rate was a "mandate" from the voters to keep the 2.5% sales tax rate.

Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Sharon Ann Nath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil L. Nath of Omaha, to Dayton L. Layman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil L. Layman, was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Nov. 10, at the Piedmont Park Seventh-day Adventist Church. The lines of the 2 o'clock service were read by Elder Roy Baughman of Downey, Calif., uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by Elder Norman Sharp.

Floor-length frocks of lavender lace were worn by Mrs. Charles Jewett of Omaha, who was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Alexander Bauman, also a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Gerald Wolff, both of Omaha.

Dr. Gerald McMillian of Springfield, Mo., served Mr. Layman as best man, and the groomsmen were Lloyd Vogler of Eagle, and James Meisinger. Seating the guests were Darrel Olson, Grand Island; Jerry Wolff, Omaha; Don Jewell and Myron Gottfried.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert Nath of Omaha, the bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned in the skimmer silhouette. Tiny pearls edged the crescent neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the slender skirt was complemented by a lace train extending to cotillion length. A jeweled crown held her illusion veil, and she carried an arrangement of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Layman will make their home in Lincoln.

Happenings In Suburbia

Another Cornhusker gridiron season on the home field is finished. Nebraska fans just won't have the time to ponder the outcome of the next two games — or next season's prospects if they are as busy as the residents of suburbia.

Before we open the books on who is doing what, however, we will tell you about a guest who is in Lincoln until after Thanksgiving. Fred Harms of Wendel, Idaho, is the house guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Munson in Eastborough. Mr. Harms, by the way, accompanied his daughter to Lincoln on Saturday, Nov. 2, following a week's visit Mrs. Munson had made in Wendel.

While in Wendel, Mrs. Munson's sister, Mrs. Edward Saad, and daughter, Lydia of Cheshire, Conn., arrived to make the week a partial but certainly a festive family reunion in Idaho.

Excitement reigns this week at the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren E. Otte. But Thanksgiving holiday plans aren't the reason. Instead they are preparing for a five-day vacation to the Los Angeles, Calif., area and to Las Vegas, Nev. Mr. and Mrs. Otte plan to leave on Friday, Nov. 22, for Las Vegas where they will spend a day or two before going on to Los Alamitos, Calif., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Otto's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Baker.

On the agenda during their California stay are visits to Disneyland and Marine Land.

Mr. and Mrs. Otte's children, Michael, 5, and Michelle, 1½, won't be bored while their parents are vacationing — They will be the guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Otte, on their farm near York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Degenhart and their children did some entertaining on Nov. 7. The affair was a celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Degnhart's mother, Mrs. Terese Degenhardt of Crete.

Mrs. Degenhardt had plenty of help celebrating as Mr. and Mrs. Degenhart's children, Danny, Joan, Alice, David, Carol Richard and Mary Pat, all were present at the party.

Some real Kansas fans attended the game on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Citta of Maple Village. Mr. and Mrs. Max Cramer of Manhattan, Kan., — old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Citta when they were Kansas residents, arrived on Saturday morning with a car full of ladies — everyone of them a loyal Kansas fan. The ladies were understandably enthusiastic and eager to see the game because their husbands are members of the Kansas State football coaching staff. Mr. and Mrs. Cramer, who are active in the Kansas State Boosters Club, volunteered to bring the wives to the game.

Also in Maple Village, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore helped Mrs. Dan Nelson celebrate her birthday on Wednesday, Nov. 6. Mr. and Mrs. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson went out to dinner at Tony and Luigi's before attending the theater.

Last weekend was a busy all-directions one for Mr. and Mrs. James York of Southbrook Summit. Mrs. York took off for Denver, Colo., and Mr. York on a hunting expedition to Ainsworth. Mrs. York left for Denver on Friday to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Buterbaugh and daughter, Shelia.

Brides-Elect, Guests In The News

It always is a nice morning when there is news of a popular bride-elect — and we have just that.

Taking the spotlight today is Miss Tedda Watts whose marriage to Benjamin Robertson will take place on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 23. The 4:30 o'clock ceremony which will be solemnized at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, will be followed by a reception at the Lincoln Country Club.

This morning Miss Watts makes announcement of the bridal entourage which includes her two sisters, Miss Katherine Watts, who is to be the maid of honor, and Miss Charla Watts, who will be the bridesmaid. Miss Barbara Robertson of Kansas City, sister of the bridegroom-elect, has been chosen as junior bridesmaid.

Mark Wendt of Nebraska City will serve Mr. Robertson as best man, and Chan Tyrrell, Jr., will be the groomsman. The fivesome of ushers will include Craig Anderson of Omaha; Larry Todd of Ft. Collins, Colo.; Allen Gillaspie, James Quinn and 'Skip' Hinkle.

* * *

November, however, has no monopoly on popularity when it comes to soon-to-be brides — We have in mind Miss Sally Reed who has a Dec. 27 date for her marage to William Cory.

Miss Reed, who has been kept on the hop, skip and jump since the announcement of her betrothal, will have few idle moments between now and her wedding. Her courtesy calendar is bulging.

Among the parties planned for late November is the luncheon on Thursday, Nov. 21, when Mrs. Wilbur Wiedman, Mrs. Peggy O'Connor, Mrs. Stanley Maly, Jr., and Mrs. Ralph King will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Wiedman. Following the luncheon the bride-elect will be presented with an around-the-clock shower.

* * *

And there is belated news of guests this morning. We hear that Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Serr and their son, Kevin, left on Sunday to return to their home in Philadelphia. Mrs. Serr and her young son had been spending the past few weeks as the guests of Mrs. Serr's mother, Mrs. O. V. Calhoun, and were joined here late last week by Mr. Serr.

* * *

A check on Homecoming guests brought the news that Mr. and Mrs. William Hodder came from Minneapolis to be the weekend house guests of Mrs. Hodder's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Campbell.

And that Charles Drake flew from Los Angeles to attend the game and to have a weekend visit with his mother, Mrs. E. B. Drake.

Bridal Courtesy

Entertaining in prenuptial courtesy to a December bride-elect last Saturday evening were Mrs. Dan Schlitt and Mrs. M. C. Leonard who honored Miss Elizabeth Stanton at a party held at the home of Mrs. Leonard.

During the evening, a one-gift shower was presented to Miss Stanton, who will become the bride of William J. Amen on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Stanton, the bride-to be is a graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Nursing in Omaha. Her fiance, who received his degree from the University of Nebraska, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Amen.

Coffee Series

The University of Nebraska Faculty Women's Club will begin a series of informal, get-acquainted coffees on Wednesday, when groups of club members will meet during the morning, afternoon and evening hours.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were married three months ago. In seven more months she is going to have a baby. I told my wife I want very much to be in the room with her when she gives birth, but she says she doesn't want me in there and I should go by the custom and walk the floor by myself. I have the doctor's permission if my wife doesn't object. The other reason she gives for not wanting me to watch her give birth is that she doesn't think it's right for me to see her nude in front of another person.

Abby, I would give my right arm to witness the birth of our first child. Is my wife right or is she wrong to deny me this privilege?

WANTS TO WATCH

DEAR WANTS: Keep your right arm. It's your wife's body, her performance, and her decision. Stay out.

DEAR ABBY: I finally accepted a date with a real jerk. I only did it because he had asked me a dozen times and I kept saying I was busy, then he asked ME to set a date when I wasn't busy. So I was stuck, right? Now he's pestering me again, and giving me the same routine. How can I discourage this drip without coming right out and insulting him? When we dance he holds me too close, sings in my ear, and pants like a dying bull. When he holds my hand, my flesh crawls.

ROSITA

DEAR ROSITA: Tell him you like him "as a friend," and don't think he ought to waste his time and money on a girl who thinks of him as a "brother." This should cool off the most amorous amigo.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90060 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead — king of spades.

Declarer lacks the advantage of seeing the defenders' cards at the start of a hand, but he will normally do just as well in most deals as if he saw all 52 cards from the word go.

Declarer should have very little trouble meeting this goal in most cases. Certain hands more or less play themselves, and declarer manages to achieve par without much bother.

But other hands require considerable skill in playing the dummy, and these are the ones that not only pose a distinct challenge but are a great joy to the real student of the game.

Take this deal where South is in five hearts and West leads the king of spades. How should declarer play the hand?

If you look at all four hands, it would seem that South must go down one due to the poor lie of the cards. He tries two club finesses, which lose, and since he cannot avoid a diamond loser also, he finishes down one.

This result may be attributed to bad luck, of course, but actually, South has a way of assuring the contract from the very beginning. He should not stake the outcome on two finesses, but should seize the play that will win regardless of where the club honors are located.

The key play occurs at trick one. When West leads the king of spades, declarer ducks in dummy and discards a diamond from his hand! West's next play does not really matter, so let's assume he leads another spade to the ace on which South discards another diamond.

Declarer draws a round of trumps, cashes the ace of diamonds, ruffs a diamond, returns to dummy with a trump, ruffs the jack of diamonds, re-enters dummy with a trump and takes a club finesse.

West wins with the queen, but must return a club or yield a ruff and discard. Either way, South is home.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

'Law, Order Symbolizes Subsidiary Issues'

"An undifferentiated lump of ills" which cause many Americans to call for law and order was examined by Yale Law School Professor Alexander M. Bickel Tuesday night.

Bickel, who was invited to Lincoln by students at the University of Nebraska Law School, spoke at the Unitarian Church under the sponsorship of the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union and the church.

It is very strange that a national political campaign for the presidency should turn on the issue of law and order, Bickel said.

"Law and order symbolizes many subsidiary issues including fears and phobias," he said.

President-elect Richard Nixon's statistics on the crime rate are an aggregation of various degrees of crimes, without any consideration of the percentage of convictions, Bickel said.

Riots, street crimes, deviant mores and other ills might be abated if the Vietnam war were ended and the social problems were attacked, but until then there is no point in classifying social problems together, Bickel said.

Society cannot control street crimes by adopting repressive measures, Bickel said, adding that such measures could lead to a "barbed wire of legalism."

"Street crimes and riots will be brought under control only if we assimilate the ghetto, that is if we ever do," Bickel said.

Criminal law is more to sustain and vindicate those who do not commit crimes than to help those who do, he said.

"Only force used economically and with compassion on the spot can control the street violence and crime," Bickel said.

"In our impatience we can destroy what we seek to preserve," Bickel said regarding curtailment of civil disobedience and demonstrations.

He said he had faith that the country would pass through "the present mood of repression."

The "surprisingly low vote George Wallace pulled" gave Bickel a measure of confidence in the future.

Flames Destroy One Apartment, Cause Heavy Damage To Another

A fire destroyed the apartment of a University of Nebraska professor Tuesday afternoon and caused considerable damage to an underlying second floor apartment at 1107 L St.

The fire was reported to the Lincoln Fire Department by Beth Ingwerson, who heard flames crackling in an apartment rented by Cater Chamblee, 34, said Fire Inspector Jerry McGinn.

Firemen hacked through a wall and cut a hole in the Chamblee apartment floor in order to totally extinguish the blaze.

Nearly all the contents of Chamblee's apartment were destroyed, including a large number of books.

The professor said he had left the apartment earlier in the afternoon.

'Boots' Washington Charged In Slaying; Ex-Gloves Champ

Omaha (AP) — A first-degree murder charge was filed Tuesday against 1958 Midwest Golden Gloves featherweight division champion William L. (Boots) Washington, 28, of Omaha.

Washington was the fourth man charged in connection with the death Sept. 21 of Keith N. Pfenning, 27, a Milwaukee, Wis., railroad man.

An initial charge of assault with intent to rob was dismissed against Washington and he was ordered held without bond.

Pfenning had moved to Council Bluffs, Iowa, about three weeks before his dealth and had been living in a camper.

A group of men around Pfening's body fled when police arrived and none was captured at the scene.

Man Sentenced To 2 To 4 Years On Theft Charge

A Lincoln man was sentenced Tuesday to four years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of more than $20,000 from Samardick of Lincoln, Inc., where he was employed.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin sentenced Alton T. Harding Jr., 24, who had pleaded guilty Oct. 21 to the charge.

Harding admited taking $20,964 in cash, three revolvers, ammunition, keys and badges from the firm's downtown Lincoln office Oct. 19.

He was arrested by the State Patrol later the same day before the theft was discovered when a trooper observed his driving in an erratic manner between Kearney and Grand Island.

NSSBA 'Misrepresented' On Great Plains Report

The board of directors of the Nebraska State School Boards Association Tuesday stated that the organization had been misrepresented, before the election, concerning the Great Plains School District Organization study.

The NSSBA was said to have endorsed the Great Plains plan by persons who oppose the plan when, in fact, the NSSBA had not, reported executive secretary Ross Rasmussen.

The Great Plains study "has not been submitted to the NSSBA for study and the board of directors has not taken any action to support it," the board said in a statement.

The board was "particularly disturbed" by the false information about NSSBA and the Great Plains report disseminated before the Nov. 5 election, Rasmussen said.

New Party Leaders Pondering Links With Demo Coalition

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Leaders of the liberal New Party will meet next week to decide whether to reorganize the party for future participation in Nebraska elections.

Meanwhile, contacts are being made this week with organizers of the Nebraska Democratic Coalition, a liberal-oriented group working for change within the Democratic Party.

New Party Chairman Phillip Scribner of Lincoln said Tuesday he does not "see much point in reorganizing the party again," at least at this time.

Bruce Hamilton of Lincoln, the party's First District congressional candidate, acknowledged that he "may possibly get back into the Democratic Party" to continue his involvement in issues such as Vietnam, racism and poverty.

But both Scribner and Hamilton stressed their indecision at this time over the form of their future political activities.

The New Party faded as an officially-recognized political party in the First District when Hamilton's vote fell below the 5% figure required to maintain legal status as a valid party.

Hamilton said he intends to "be active and involved" politically, but "I personally don't know yet how I should do it."

If New Party members want to reorganize their party to regain official recognition, Hamilton said, "quite frankly, I am sure they would have no problem in doing so during the school year."

New Party support appears to be strongest on the University of Nebraska campus.

Hamilton said the "most discouraging result" of the Nebraska election was voter rejection of the constitutional amendment which would have lowered the minimum voting age from 21 to 19.

Scribner said he still harbors some "hang-ups about the Democratic Party," and might find it difficult to work within its framework.

But he is willing to listen to the newly-formed Coalition, he said.

3 Confessed Slayers Seek Parole

The State Board of Pardons will hear appeals for parole from three confessed murderers at its December meeting.

The three are Duane McLain, 35, of Rushville; Sharon Kay Dahl, 23, of Coleridge; and Joseph E. McLimans, 48, of Long Pine.

McLain is serving a life sentence for the Aug. 20, 1953, slaying of Karen Talbot, 13, of Rushville.

McLain, who confessed to the killing, was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in December, 1953, in Chadron. He was 19 at the time of the slaying.

The girl's body was found in a shallow grave on the ranch on which McLain lived alone nearly two months after she disappeared.

He had graduated from high school the previous spring and had been a star athlete and president of his senior class.

A previous appeal for parole and for a reduction of sentence was turned down by the board in 1966.

Miss Dahl confessed to second degree murder in 1961 and was sentenced to two concurrent 30-year prison terms for the shotgun slaying of her parents. She was 16 at the time and was a sophomore in high school.

She said in her confession her parents would not let her have dates and made her babysit with six other children in the family.

McLimans confessed in 1953 to the March 7, 1952 fatal shooting of O'Neill police Chief Chester Calkins. He said he shot Calkins after the policeman stopped his car on an O'Neill street. McLimans said he was "very drunk" when the shooting took place.

McLimans' sentence was reduced from life to 45 years in prison by the Pardon Board in 1965.

Hearings Begin In Omaha, Des Moines Air Service Case

Washington (AP) — A spokesman for the Union Pacific Railroad says the line has been forced to buy two jet aircraft of its own to serve executives having business in Omaha, Neb.

He told a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing examiner that the railroad bought the planes because of inadequate commercial air service to Omaha.

Twelve airlines are seeking authority to serve Omaha and Des Moines, Iowa. A lengthy and largely technical examination of the case began Tuesday.

The proceedings were initiated by the city of Omaha.

The Omaha and Des Moines markets have been the sole province of two airlines — United and Braniff — under the CAB's grandfather rule.

This rule provides that an air carrier providing service before certain CAB regulations came into effect can maintain such service if it is adequate for the area.

Most of the testimony already has been taken in earlier hearings. The present hearing mainly involves cross examination dealing with previously submitted written testimony.

Aside from Omaha and Des Moines, the city of Lincoln, Neb., has been granted "rights of intervention" in the case. But hearing examiner Richard Walsh said that Lincoln, while it has rights of intervention, must not use the hearings as a forum to present its collateral needs for increased air service.

Among those protesting the wording and other apparently minor portions of exhibits submitted Tuesday was Andrew L. Frey, a Washington attorney representing Omaha.

The record in the case contains allegations that Omaha "is subject to monpoly air service to a far greater extent than any other large city" in America.

The charge was made by Julien R. Schrenk, another attorney representing area users.

A long list of civic and business leaders is on record complaining to the CAB that there is little effort at through service to major Des Moines and Omaha destination points — particularly on the East Coast.

United Airlines, it was stated, uses Chicago as a stopping point for too many of its flights to eastern cities.

Airlines seeking a portion of the market will attempt to demonstrate that the number of passengers carried by the two airlines serving the area is too high.

Braniff and United will try to show that they are serving the area well and do not need help. They have prepared exhibits designed to show that a dilution of the market would be economically injurious to all carriers.

It may take a year before the full board makes a decision in the case, which already is almost two years old.

1,000 Car Check Stations Expected By Jan. 1

State Motor Vehicle Director Emmett J. Dennis Jr. said Tuesday he is "optimistic" that 1,000 state-approved motor vehicle inspection stations will be ready to go by Jan. 1.

Dennis said only 250 stations have been approved to date because applicants "have had difficulties in obtaining equipment."

"We think the problem is now resolved," he said. "Suppliers assure us they can equip 750 more stations" before the state's new motor vehicle inspection law goes into effect next January.

Dennis said "approximately $275 worth of equipment is necessary to satisfy the state's requirements."

"Some stations are buying more sophisticated equipment," he said. "Others have some equipment, and need only to fill-in on one or two items."

Dennis said 1,500 service stations and garages have indicated plans to become a state-approved inspection station, and anticipated "most" will ultimately become licensed.

Dennis said the inspection station "applicants" are fairly well scattered over the state, and a news release will be made before January advising the public of the numbers and locations by cities and towns.

Under the state inspection law, all motor vehicles must be annually inspected for brakes, steering, lights, turn signals, and other safety equipment.

The inspection station will charge a $2 fee with 25 cents being retained by the state for administrative purposes. No additional charge will be made for reinspection of deficient items corrected within 10 days of original inspection.

Dennis said state inspectors should be able to complete approval checks for 750 stations as equipment is installed.

"Operators must satisfy state inspectors they can operate the inspection equipment and have one year's experience or more in garage or service station work," he said.

The director said inspection stations will be identified with a "window decal," but that metal identification signs will be made available as soon as possible.

Polls Meaningless

One of the most meaningless aspects of football these days are the wire service polls.

Less than 75% of the time we so-called experts aren't even right in trying to pick the best team from two teams we have seen play. Yet we try to rate footabll team in order of ability that we haven't seen play and know little more about than how many points they scored Saturday.

It's a bit like trying to pick the winner of a beauty contest simply by being given hair color, eye color and measurements of the contestants. Using that information, the girl you pick sight unseen might be so ugly she couldn't get a date if she walked into a prison full of life-termers who had been confined for 20 years.

Most of the voters on both the Associated Press and United Press International boards know little more about the Nebraska-Kansas game than the final score.

Most of them would not bother to find out that the margin of victory was not a true indication of the contest. If Nebraska and Kansas were to play 10 times, I would guess Kansas to be the winner seven of those times, but those other three times could effect the polls wrongly.

As an example take the No. 1 ranked Southern Cal team. We are not quarreling with the fact that they are No. 1 nor are we quarreling with where any of the teams are rated.

What we are doing is pointing out how slim the margin is between that rated team and someone who didn't attract a single vote.

No team, and that includes Southern Cal, Ohio State, Penn State or any others in the top 10, is going to play close to the top of its potential every week.

Now if Southern Cal has its bad Saturday when it is playing Washington, it may still win and likely would retain the top spot.

But if that bad Saturday would come against a Minnesota or a Notre Dame, the Trojans likely would lose and there would go the No. 1 rating, yet the only difference between the Southern Cal team that would have been rated No. 1 and the team that might be No. 6 is who the opponent was when that off day came.

How About Notre Dame

Hating to keep riling Notre Dame fans year after year, but how can you figure the Fighting Irish being ninth in the AP ratings?

They haven't beaten any of the eight teams rated ahead of them, yet they have lost to two teams that are rated below them.

How can you rate Notre Dame ninth and Purdue 15th when the Boilermakers won the meeting of the two and their performances in other games are not that much different from each other.

Take the case of Oklahoma. The Sooners' losses have come to eighth-ranked Texas, ninth-ranked Notre Dame and to unranked Colorado while OU beat seventh rated Kansas.

On that basis does Kansas deserve to rank seventh while the Sooners aren't even in the top 20?

Or take Nebraska. Their losses have come to sixth-ranked Missouri, seventh-rated Kansas and unranked Kansas State. But the Huskers own a victory over No. 20 Wyoming.

This is not to say that Nebraska belongs in the top 20. I certainly would not argue they are among the 20 best in the nation. But is there that much difference between Nebraska and Kansas or Missouri? The contention here is that no one knows who the top 20 are and there's really no way of knowing.

Cipriano's Top Five Uncertain

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano admits he isn't much closer to selecting a starting lineup today than he was when drills opened nearly a month ago.

"It's to the point now, with the second group improving so much, that we might say they'll be the starters against the freshmen next week if they beat the first group in practice," says Cipriano.

Cipriano indicated that he had almost made up his mind about a starting lineup, but that recent practices have thrown the battle for the starting jobs wide open again.

The Cornhusker coach indicated that the offense hasn't "jelled" as quickly as he had hoped.

"We knew it would take a little longer this year because we have so many new players, but I thought it would be better by this time," he says.

"We should have more rebounding than we've had before and I think we have more potential for inside scoring," he says.

Cipriano points to junior college transfer Jim Brooks, sophomores Tom Bryan and LeRoy Chalk and junior letterman Dale Von Seggern as being responsible for the improved rebounding outlook.

"Brooks is fitting in well," says Cipriano, indicating that the 6-8 junior will give the Cornhuskers more inside scoring potential than they've had in the past few seasons.

Brooks opened at center with Bryan and letterman Bob Gratopp at the forward spots in Saturday s scrimmage. Junior Sam Martin and junior college transfer Marv Stewart were at guard with Tom Scantlebury in reserve for the first unit which won, 77-71.

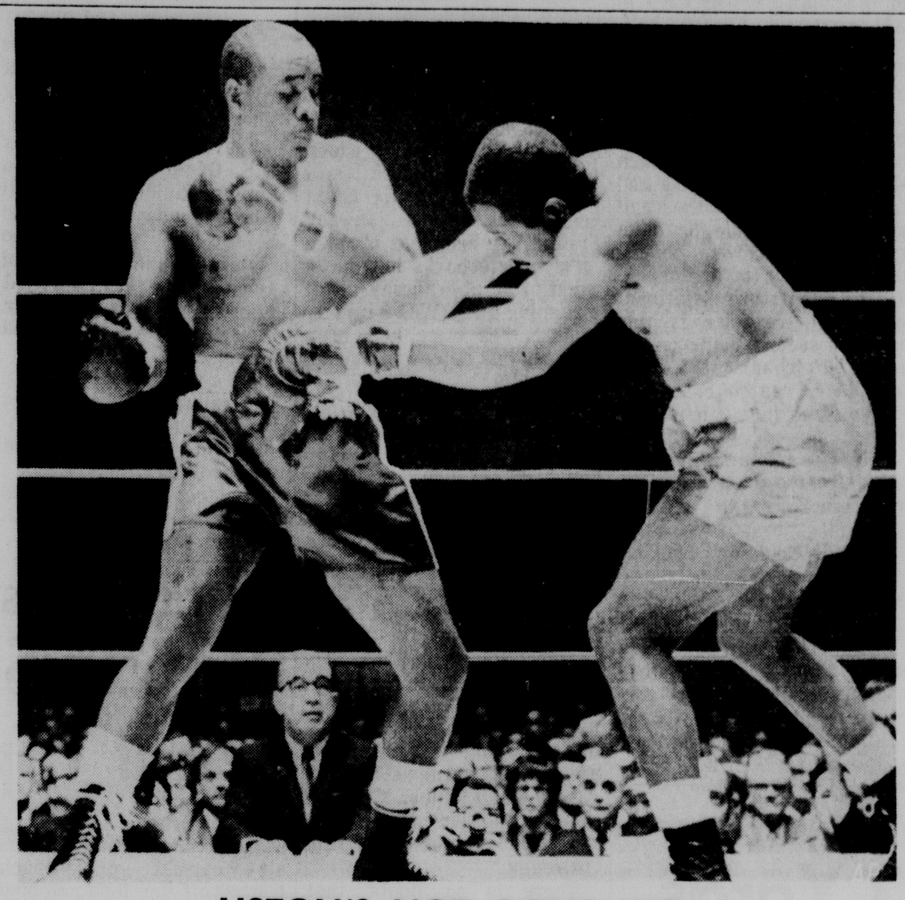

Veterans Von Seggern and Ken Cauble remain in the running for front line berths.

Cipriano indicates that guards Cliff Moller and N. S. Hurd are also progressing well.

"Moller has been looking awfully good in the last few practices and Hurd is moving up the ladder. We feel he'll help us with our press."

The Cornhusker coach indicates that the freshman club the varsity meets Nov. 22 could give his team some problems.

Bob Schuchart Named Holmes' Head Golf Pro

LISTON'S NOT GONE YET

Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, left, served notice Tuesday night that he was not finished in the ring yet, knocking out Roger Rischer in 2:23 of the third round of their bout.

. . . LIKES CHALLENGE

Bob Schuchart, assistant golf pro at Hillcrest Country Club the past three years, was named head pro at Holmes Golf Course Tuesday.

The announcement was made informally by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

Schuchart, a 35-year-old Omaha native, will replace 30-year-old John Young, who resigned three weeks ago after serving as head pro since the Holmes layout opened in 1964.

"I think it is a real good move," Schuchart said. "I'm looking forward to the challenge."

Schuchart said, "Holmes is probably as good a public golf course as there is around this part of the country. And traffic-wise, it gets as big a play as any course in this section."

The new Holmes pro said he plans to make some improvements in the clubhouse and make the operation of the course more efficient.

BOB SCHUCHART

Schuchart also said he hopes to retain Al Daugherty, who served under Young, as assistant pro.

Jim Ager, director of the City Parks and Recreation Department, said, "We're tickled to death to get him," when asked about Schuchart's appointment. "I think he's a fine young man. We're sorry to lose John Young, but we think we got the best man available."

Ager said Schuchart's duties would be confined largely to Holmes, while the Junior Golf Course, which Young had been responsible for, would now be operated by the Park Department.

While Schuchart will not run the Junior course, Ager said Schuchart would hold some clinics there.

This will be Schuchart's first job as a head club pro, but he is no stranger to the business.

Schuchart spent 12 years working around the pro shop at Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club where his father Bill served as club pro. The senior Schuchart is a former president of the Nebraska Professional Golfers' Association.

When his father retired from the Happy Hollow post, the younger Schuchart moved to Lincoln where he began his three years' service as assistant to Hillcrest Country Club pro Bunny Richards.

Bowl Battles Shape Up

New York (AP) — Undefeated Penn State and Georgia have the inside track for the Orange Bowl and Tennessee the edge for the Sugar Bowl but all other pieces are scrambled in the post-season college football jigsaw puzzle.

ROSE BOWL — Southern California (7-0) and Ohio State (7-0) favored but Southern Cal must beat Oregon State (6-2) and Ohio State must top Iowa and Michigan. Oregon State and Michigan could get the bids if they should upset the No. 1 and No. 2 teams.

ORANGE BOWL — Penn State (7-0), third-ranked nationally, a cinch if it can beat Maryland Saturday. Georgia (6-0-2) will be the opponent if it can beat Auburn this week. Auburn also a possibility.

SUGAR BOWL — A strong edge to Tennessee (5-1-1) but the Vols must whip tough Mississippi (6-2) Saturday. Ole Miss remains a possibility if it can beat Tennessee. High-scoring Kansas favored for the other spot if victorious over Kansas State. The sponsors can't afford to await the outcome of the Kansas-Missouri game Nov. 23.

COTTON BOWL — The Southwest Conference champion serves as the host team but this red-hot race is in a four-way tie among Texas, Texas Tech, Arkansas and Southern Methodist, all 4-1 in the league. Arkansas and SMU clash this week in Little Rock but the champion may not be decided until Arkansas and Texas Tech meet Nov. 23. If there's a three-way tie among SMU, Texas and Texas Tech, the latter will be picked because its last Cotton Bowl appearance predates the others. Missouri or one of the top Southeastern teams is likely to get the other spot.

GATOR BOWL, Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 28 — It looks like Alabama and one of the left-over Southwest teams, Arkansas, Texas, SMU or Texas Tech.

BLUEBONNET BOWL, Houston, Dec. 31 — Auburn and Alabama liked, possibly to oppose one of the Southwest teams.

SUN BOWL, El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28 — Mississippi, if it loses to Tennessee, against Wyoming 6-2.

LIBERTY BOWL, Memphis, Dec. 14— Mississippi high in favor as are Auburn and Alabama. There will be bidding also in the Southwest.

Rated 'D', 8-Man Clubs Must Still Face Playoffs

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Of the 20 teams listed among the top ten rated Class D and eight-man teams today, 15 have finished the season, while five face additional conference playoff games.

One Class D contest pits No. 1 ranked Wolbach against Loup City Central Catholic for the Central Nebraska crown, while three eight-man titles involve the other four clubs.

The most interest centers around the Orchard-Platte Center battle for the Sandhill Gateway title. Both are in the top ten and both unbeaten and untied after disposing of nine straight foes.

No. 3 Hardy has a rematch with Milligan, which it beat 20-7 during the regular campaign, for the Cloverleaf championship, while Trenton (No. 4) faces Bartley in the Southern Frontier playoff.

The last game is to be held Friday afternoon, while the others are set for today.

Wolbach will be highly favored in the eleven-man struggle. Though the two teams haven't met, they have faced five common opponents. Wolbach defeated all five, several by lopsided scores, while Loup City CC was losing to two of the same teams.

The Orchard-Platte Center game looms as a real standoff. They have met three common opnents, and though Orchard is rated one notch higher, Platte Center holds a slight edge, having scored 133 points against the three while allowing 33 points, whereas the Orchard spread is 104-25.

Trenton and Bartley have also faced the same teams on several occasions, sharing four common foes. Trenton's explosive offense, which scored 213 points against the four while giving up just 27 points, establishes them as the favorite.

Bartley also beat them all, with an almost equally impressive 151-30 difference in the four scores.

4—Sumner (8-0-1)	9—Elwood (7-2)

Winds Shut Down Five Race Tracks

By Associated Press

Five race tracks were shut down and one that had been closed suffered an estimated $100,000 damage Tuesday in snow and wind storms that struck the East coast.

The daily racing program was called off at Charles Town in West Virginia when four inches of snow fell in the area.

Also closed were Garden State and Freehold in New Jersey, Saratoga in New York and Laurel, Md. Winds clocked at 69 miles an hour ripped through the track and knocked over the upper section of the entire north wall of the grandstand at Garden State Park.

The wall, 200 feet long and 30 weet high, plunged through a roof two stories below and into executive offices of the New Jersey Racing Commission. The track closed for the season last month, and the offices were not occupied.

Patriots Appear Improved

There isn't a senior on the John F. Kennedy College basketball team this year, but with two returnees who averaged over 23 points per game last season and nary a player under 5-11 on the squad, the Patriots could be rough in 1968-69.

George Milby's team was 11-11 last year and can't help but improve with the likes of 6-8 Steve Rasmussen who broke all the school records in scoring and rebounding as a sophomore, and 6-1 Jim Evans, a former California high school star who hit 23.8 points a game as a freshman.

Milby is expecting a lot from Lincoln's Fred Dandridge (14.5) and some newcomers like 5-11 San Jose State transfer Dave Triano, 6-7 Jim Miller from Fort Dodge, Iowa and two east coast high school all-staters.

"We should improve over last year although we are still a young ball club. I'm looking to the future (1969-70 season)," Milby said. The Patriots open Nov. 29 at home against Albert Lea College.

NU's Mental Attitude Key To Bouncing Back

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska head football coach Bob Devaney said the mental attitude of his Huskers was the key to their bouncing back from last Saturday's 12-0 loss to Kansas State.

"It's just a matter of everybody getting up and playing football," Devaney said Tuesday as he looked ahead to Saturday's game with Colorado in Boulder.

"Without a lot of inspiration and enthusiasm, we'll never be in the game," Devaney warned.

But it appeared the Huskers might be mentally ready as they showed some spirit in Monday and Tuesday's workouts.

"They hustled real well yesterday and today," Devaney said. "I just hope they realize they have a job ahead."

Devaney discussed Colorado's offensive arsenal which includes all-American quarterback candidate Bob Anderson and a pair of good fullbacks in Tom Nigbur and sophomore Ward Walsch.

Devaney said Colorado runs I-back power plays well and is very dangerous due to the versatility of Anderson.

"He does a variety of things well," the Husker coach said of Anderson. "He runs the option, a follow-up play, and the quarterback sweep around either end. Anderson is very versatile and he's throwing dropback passes better than ever."

Devaney said the Buffs split both of their ends wide and also throw quite a bit to their fullback. He labeled junior end Monte Huber their top receiver.

Devaney said Carl Ashman and Joe Buda were alternating at center on the first unit, while Ernie Sigler and Frank Patrick, were sharing No. 1 quarterback duties. However, the Husker coach said Sigler would probably start Saturday.

Defensive captain Jim Hawkins remains doubtful for the Colorado game as he continues to nurse a chronic knee ailment.

Devaney said the status of ailing defensive tackle Dave Walline would not be known for a couple of days, but defensive back Tom Heller, who had missed the last two days of practice with a probable kidney infection, was expected to be back today.

Zabel Proves Worth In Sooner Victory

. . . BIG EIGHT'S TOP LINEMAN

Kansas City (AP) — For two seasons, Steve Zabel has been recognized as one of the Big Eight Conference's premier tight ends, but it is only the past two weeks that his real value to Oklahoma has been realized.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks moved the rangy Sooner end to defense two weeks ago, and the results have been little short of spectacular.

Zabel, a 6-4, 212-pound junior from Thornton, Colo., put the backbone in the Oklahoma defense which enabled the Sooners to upset Kansas, 27-23 last Saturday. In addition, he continues to fill a key role for the Sooners on offense, becoming a genuine rarity in today's colleges—the two-way player.

For his performance against Kansas, Zabel was named Tuesday the Big Eight's lineman-of-the-week.

Against the third-ranked and unbeaten Jayhawks, Zabel:

Led Oklahoma's defensive charge which was credited with 11 hard rushes on KU quarterback Bobby Douglass, tackling him five times and forcing him to throw quickly six times. Zabel personally was credited with four unassisted tackles and with helping on 10 more. He also blocked a field goal attempt and just missed blocking an extra point attempt which sailed wide.

Caught two passes for 15 yards on offense, with both going for first downs on Sooner touchdown drives deep in KU territory in the first half.

Punted seven times for a 38.8—yard average, including kicks of 48, 49 and 42 yards in the first half when his boots kept the Jayhawks at bay and including one which rolled dead on the Kansas four. Zabel kept the ball away from Donnie Shanklin and Kansas had no chance to return five of the punts.

"It's even more significant when you consider it was only his second game on defense," Fairbanks said, "and he played on offense and made some key catches for us.

"He gives some stature to our defensive team. He gives us somebody to rally around."

Picked Monday as back-of-the-week was Missouri safety Roger Wehrli, who returned six punts 149 yards in the Tigers' 42-7 rout of Iowa State. That broke the Big Eight single-game punt return record of 135 yards set in the season opener against Kentucky by Wehrli.

'80% O.J. Is Enough For Prize'

New York (AP) — O. J. Simpson is only 80 per cent of O. J. Simpson but coach John McKay feels that's good enough to win him 100 per cent of the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

"He's been the winning force behind our team," says the coach of top-ranked Southern California, which takes a 7-0 record into Saturday's key Pacific Eight encounter against Oregon State. "You hear that about a lot of quarterbacks but that's great to be able to say about a running back. We've won 17 of 18 games since he's been here against defenses stacked to stop him."

The fact that Simpson has been something less than perfect physically might come as a surprise to the seven teams that have held him to 1,201 yards in 247 carries.

"He has a little limp," McKay pointed out. "He's never fully recovered from leg injuries early in the season. But for a boy only 80% healthy he's doing a fantastic job.

"He's a fantastic running back making a tremendous amount of yardage against good football teams. The only time he was slowed down this year was in the mud and rain at Oregon."

There is no doubt that McKay rates Simpson, likely the pros' No. 1 draft choice, above Mike Garrett, a former Trojan halfback now starring for the Kansas City Chiefs.

"He's bigger than Garrett," McKay said, "and he's a legitimate 9.4-9.5 sprinter. Most football sprinters you read about are timed once by an alarm clock. He has everything going for him and he's very durable."

Simpson and Purdue's Leroy Keyes were Gary Begans main competition for the Heisman Trophy a year ago and they were expected to battle it out this season. McKay was informed that Keyes also throws passes, catches them and plays some defense.

"If we wanted to play him on defense he would be a fantastic defensive back," the coach said. "He played safety in junior college and he was a great tackler. But you won't see him play defense at Southern Cal. We feel O. J. is a home run hitter and we don't have him bunt."

Trevino, Player Arrive For World Cup Matches

. . . AMERICANS FAVORED

Rome (AP) — Lee Trevino and Gary Player flew into Rome Tuesday and quickly began preparations for the 42-nation World Cup golf competition, starting Thursday.

Trevino, the chatterbox U.S. Open champion from Dallas, came from Hawaii where Sunday he won the $25,000 first prize in the Hawaiian International Open and contributed $10,000 to a trust fund for the son of Hawaii's late Ted Makalena.

Player came from Australia where he won the Australian Open and completed a successful tour of that continent.

In the opening round Thursday, Trevino will team with the U.S. Professional Golfers Association champion, Julius Boros, in defense of the World Cup, formerly called the Canada Cup.

The Americans are favored with Player and his South African teammate, Gobie Legrande, rated the strongest of the 41 challenging two-man teams.

The competition covers 72 holes, one round a day for four days, ending Sunday. Prizes are given for both team and individual victories. Arnold Palmer won the individual crown at Mexico City last year and teamed with Jack Nicklaus in giving America its 10th team triumph in 15 tournaments.

Trevino, the volatile, 33-year-old Texsan, was the center of attention when he put in his appearance at the 6,850-yard, par 72 Olgiata course on the outskirts of this ancient city.

He described the reasons for his generous gesture to the family of Makalena, a regular competitor in the Cup matches.

"Ted once had a hair-line neck fracture playing high school football," Trevino said. "Not long ago he had two of his children standing on his shoulders on the beach and it broke his neck.

"He went under and swallowed salt water, which damaged his brain. If he had lived, he would have been just a vegetable. I had to do something."

Makalena left a son and three daughters.

Walker TKO's Thad Spencer In Sixth Round

London (AP) — Billy Walker, 29-year-old British heavyweight, stopped Thad Spencer of San Francisco in the sixth round of a scheduled 10 rounder Tuesday night with a fiery flurry of right hand punches.

The crowd of about 8,000 at London's Wembley indoor stadium cheered as the Briton hammered away from the start and had the 25-year-old Spencer staggering around the ring.

British referee Roland Dakin stopped the fight after 2 minutes, 4 seconds in the sixth round to save Spencer from further punishment.

Walker weighed 190¼ pounds, Spencer 193½ pounds.

Walker now has won 21 out of his 30 fights, 18 by knockouts. Spencer, once a challenger for the vacant world heavyweight crown, has won 33 of 40 fights.

The Associated Press gave Walker the first, third, fourth and fifth rounds with the second even.

Lady Returns Denny's Lamb

Detroit (AP) — A missing $3,000 Persian lamb Nehru jacket which Detroit Tiger pitcher Denny McLain reported stolen while he was performing in a nightclub has turned up — slightly ripped and missing a button.

The Detroit News said Tuesday the coat was turned over to it Monday night by an ardent woman fan who said she thought McLain was giving it to her as a souvenir.

McLain, who put the price tag on the missing coat, passed it around for inspection by his audience during his performance at a Detroit night club last weekend. She said McLain had used it to wipe up champaigne from the floor. She didn't believe it really was the celebrated $3,000 jacket.

When McLain passed it out to the front tables, the jacket wound up in the woman's lap — and she kept it.

The woman told the news no thievery was intended and asked to remain anonymous.

Baker's 313 Yards Earns Prep Honor

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

A lot of backs strive to make the "Century Club" each week, by gaining one hundred yards a game.

Stromsburg's Kevin Baker accomplished the feat every quarter as he led the Swedes to a 40-6 win over Genoa last Friday. It also earned him honors as Player of the Week.

Baker only played three quarters of the game, but accounted for 313 yards. He scored four times on touchdown runs of 55, 1, 22 and 58 yards and passed for two more.

The senior quarterback, who is also an honor roll student, had been over the 100 yard mark in each of his last five games, but this was the first time for him to triple that total.

Others who had outstanding final season games and deserve special recognition include:

Jeff Biegert, Shickley — Scored an amazing six touchdowns, three on runs from scrimmage and three on pass receptions in a 63-26 conquest of Milligan, a team which will be playing in a conference championship game this week.

Mike Gestring, Blue Hill — A 10.1 dash man in track, Mike sped to three TD's against Lawrence last week, on a 92-yard scamper, another for 66 yards. Gained 242 yards in all, giving him 1,200 for the year.

Mark Gustafson, Aurora — The Huskies had one of two close games of the year against Albion in their finale. Gustafson scored all three touchdowns for the winners, though he only carried the ball eight times while gaining 124 yards.

Mark Johnson, Seward Concordia — The workhorse in a closing win over Class B Wahoo Neumann. His club came up with 304 yards gained, Johnson accounted for 190 of them.

Randy Gausman, Chester-Hubbell — Had a great night with 10 pass completions in 14 attempts, two of them for TD's. Also ran for three other touchdowns, yet played only two quarters in a lopsided 52-7 win over Byron.

Don Westerhold, Pender — After West Point CC built up a 20-7 lead, Westerhold paced a tightening defense to enable Pender to come back for a 26-26 tie against the foe from a higher classification, with 13 tackles and eight assists from his linebacker post.

Blanda Shows 'Em What Top Player Is

New York (AP) — George Blanda, the Oakland Raiders' 41-year-old quarterback, trotted off the field, stopped next to coach John Rauch and, looking at 36-year-old Cotton Davidson, said:

"You can put the kid in now." Blanda smiled, enjoying his little joke. He already enjoyed one of the most satisfying days in his 19 years of pro football.

In the first 53 minutes against Denver Sunday, he had thrown four touchdown passes and kicked two field goals and five extra points.

Davidson, "the kid," finished at quarterback, the Raiders wound up with a 43-7 victory and Blanda wound up with The Associated Press' award as the American Football League's Offensive Player of the week Tuesday.

Blanda received his first starting assignment in two seasons because Daryle Lamonica, the No. 1 quarterback, suffered a muscle spasm in his back the day before the game.

Blanda, football's eldest statesman, had played sparingly in his two years with Oakland, but he was ready for the No. 1 job.

"I was a little excited, like a kid with a new toy, but I didn't get all shook up about starting," said Blanda, who was a senior at Kentucky when his coach was a sophomore at Georgia.

"Being the No. 2 quarterback, I always have to be prepared for anything that might happen. In fact, during the week I throw as much during practice as Daryle."

Blanda threw as well as Daryle during the game, too. He completed 14 of 26 passes for 295 yards, teaming with Fred Biletnikoff for touchdowns of 22 and 16 yards and Warren Wells for scores of 17 and 94, the last a team record.

Interestingly enough, Blanda all last season threw only 38 passes, completing 15 for 285 yards and three touchdowns. This year he had been 14 for 21 for 199 yards and one touchdown.

His primary job is kicking, and he does that well, too. He won the AFL scoring title with 116 points last year and currently is fourth with 70.

But when he kicked his field goals and extra points Sunday, he had a different holder than usual. With Lamonica out, Davidson took over. Between them, they represented 30 years of pro football experience and 77 years of age.

"Between Cotton and me, we have taken quite a lot of malignment about being the old men." Blanda said.

Other offensive players rating mention are Joe Namath, whose passes set up two New York touchdowns and two field goals; Robert Hlmes, whose 158 yards rushing included Kansas City's winning 27-yard touchdown, and Bob Griese, who brought Miami back from a 17-0 deficit against Buffalo by running for the first touchdown, throwing for the second and setting up a third.

Hunting Is Good In Alliance Shop

Alliance (UPI) — The pheasant hunting was good here Tuesday afternoon—and there wasn't too much effort involved.

Workers in the service department at Campbell's Chevrolet looked up about 4 p.m. to see a ringneck rooster come crashing through a window into the shop.

The only debate now is who bagged the bird.

NYAC Meet Discontinued

New York (AP) — The nation's oldest indoor track and field competition, the New York Athletic Club Meet, went out of business Tuesday, apparently the victim of the black power struggle.

"We will not have a meet at Madison Square Garden this winter," said Ray Lumpp, NYAC athletic director. He declined to elaborate.

The new Madison Square Garden, scene of a riot last Feb. 16 during threat of a Negro boycott, confirmed that it had been notified by the NYAC that it was discontinuing sponsorship of the traditional event.

The NYAC has been holding indoor track meets for 100 years and has never missed a year, despite war or depression.

One prominent track authority close to the situation, declining to be identified, said of the move: "The explanation is simple — no one has to be subjected to the abuse the NYAC had to take last February."

Leaders of black civil rights movements urged a Negro boycott of the NYAC meet last Feb. 16 for what they alleged was discrimination against Negroes and Jews.

At the time, Lumpp defended the policies of the club saying: "The NYAC always has been generous and gracious in giving tickets for the meet to underprivileged kids from all kinds of groups."

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he also had been told of the NYAC's withdrawal from the indoor program.

"I don't know why, I think they just want to wash their hands of it," he said. He added that an Olympic development program would be staged on that date, Feb. 21.

Buffs Make 3 Moves To Strengthen Defense

. . . CAPRA TO START AT TACKLE

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — University of Colorado coach Eddie Crowder Tuesday made three moves in an attempt to strengthen the Buffalo defense as they prepare for Thursday's Big Eight Conference football test against Nebraska here.

Crowder said sophomore Dave Capra, a 224-pound defensive tackle will start at left tackle for the second week in place of Dave Perini. A junior, Rich Varriano, will replace injured regular Bill Collins at middle guard if he is unable to perform against the Huskers.

Sophomore Mike Murphy is battling senior Ike Howard for the left defensive corner spot. Murphy has started five games this year, and Howard three.

A capacity crowd of 48,000 is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's football practice finished up under the lights Tuesday.

Coach Dan Devine said placekicker Henry Brown has a muscle tear and Jim Anderson will handle kickoffs at Oklahoma Saturday. Rocky Wallace will try the long field goals and Bill Sangster the extra points and short field goals.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Coach Pepper Rodgers of Kansas said Tuesday that KU's Saturday opponent, Kansas State University, "has some real fine football players."

"They're as good as we've seen in some positions," he said. He listed six positions without giving out any names —split end, flanker, running back, defensive end, quarterback and punter.

But there is little doubt he was speaking of Dave Jones, Mack Herron, Cornelius Davis, Manuel Barrera, Lynn Dickey and Bob Coble.

"They have a quarterback on the bench who almost beat us last year," Rodgers added. He was speaking of quarterback Bill Nossek.

Rodgers said Tuesday's practice "wasn't real good" because several players can't go at full speed.

All the injured will be ready to play Saturday and only end John Mosier and middle guard Al Jakobcic will miss practicing with the regular squad Wednesday, Rodgers said.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (UPI) — The Wildcats of Kansas State University held their practice Tuesday at an undisclosed location, and head coach Vince Gibson jokingly commented later, "we went off and worked on our secret offense."

"We just wanted to do something a little different," Gibson added.

Gibson made several favorable comments about Kansas, the 'Cats opponent next Saturday, saying, "they are really tough and we'd better play great against them if we hope to compete."

What For An Encore?

Jim Gibbard made a successful debut this fall as Michigan State's cross country coach. His Spartans beat defending Big Ten champion Indiana by one point.

Bois Is The Boy

Michigan State's hockey team is captained by Dick Bois from Espanola, Ont.

Coach Quits Wayne Job

Wayne (UPI) — John Jermier, head football and baseball coach at Wayne State College since 1962, announced his resignation Tuesday, effective at the end of the current academic year.

He said he would remain in coaching, but that his future plans were tentative.

Dr. W. A. Brandenburg, Wayne president, accepted the resignation with regret, calling Jermier "a valuable member of Wayne's faculty" with an excellent record both as a teacher and coach.

Jermier, a 1959 graduate of Coe college in Iowa, coached at Postville, Iowa, High School for one year and was an assistant coach at Coe College for two years before coming to Wayne.

His football teams here had a 36-24 record, with only nine of the losses coming in Nebraska College Conference (NCC) games. His teams won one NCC title and was co-champion another year.

Jermier-coached baseball teams at Wayne captured the NCC title twice and also shared one title.

Jermier is married and the father of two children.

Smith Lake Fish In New Locations

North Platte (AP) — Several hundred pounds of fish were removed from Smith Lake, northeast of Alliance, and have been restocked in lakes and streams in the Alliance area by a Game Commission Crew from North Platte.

Smith Lake was drained for renovation and restocking. Last winter, the lake suffered winter-kill.

Technicians removed 175 northern pike, 20 to 24 inches long, which were taken to Island Lake, south of Alliance. Cranke Lake, near the Crescent Lake Refuge, received 106 bluegill, from 6 to 10 inches long, and 877 perch in the 10-to-12 inch class. More than 48,000 bullheads up to 12 inches were stocked in George Lake south of Hyannis and 2,400 were stocked in Indian Creek at Alliance.

Dr. Fager Named Year's Top Horse

New York (AP) — Dr. Fager was named Horse of the Year by sports writers and broadcasters in the United States and Canada, according to a poll released Tuesday by Turf and Sports Digest.

Dr. Fager, who won seven of his eight starts in 1968 before ending his racing career, drew 103 votes from the 145 writers and broadcasters polled.

Dark Mirage, a 3-year-old filly, finished second in the balloting with 21 votes, followed by Damascus with 12.

Dark Mirage won 3-year-old filly honors, Forward Pass was named the 3-year-old colt champion, Top Knight was named the best among 2-year-old colts and Process Shot was the winner in the voting for top 2-year-old filly.

Gerths, Purcell '68 Co-Captains

Omaha (UPI) — Offensive right guard Gerald "Dutch" Gerths and defensive linebacker Don Purcell Tuesday night were named honorary co-captains for the Omaha Mustangs for the 1968 season.

It marked the third consecutive year Purcell had received the honor.

The Mustangs wind up their home season by hosting the Arkansas Diamonds Saturday night at 8 p.m. It will be played as a memorial to Glen Hepburn, who was fatally injured in a game at Detroit earlier in the season.

Mustang general manager Jack Payne said flankerback Bill Haas would be out for Saturday's game with a cracked collarbone. He received the injury in the first half of last week's Mustang victory over Arkansas.

Olympian At 14

Youngest member of the 1968 U.S. Olympic team for the winter games was Janet Lynn, 14, of Rockford, Ill. She's a figure skater.

KSU's Dickey Challenges Mark

Kansas, City, Mo. — For a sophomore who was being brought along slowly, Kansas State's Lynn Dickey is moving awfully fast and now has a chance to become the all-time sophomore passing leader in the Big Eight Conference.

A starter for the past four games, after operating in an experience-gaining role the first four, backing up Bill Nossek, Dickey has moved to third in the league with his 139.5 per-game average, which leaves him only five yards a contest off the record for a sophomore, set last year by Nebraska's Frank Patrick.

Dickey, who led the Wildcats to their upset of Nebraska with his 217 aerial lengths, has recorded the best throwing day in the Big Eight this year, 248 yards, and the most completions of the season, 21. His Nebraska output made him the 10th man in Big Eight history to throw for that many yards in a season.

Far and away the leader in rushing, though, is another junior, Oklahoma's Steve Owens, who maintains a seasonal and career record pace. Owens, averaging 152.4 yards a game, now has 1,067 for the year. This leaves him, with three games left, only 275 yards behind the seasonal standard of 1,342 held by Nebraska's Bobby Reynolds.

Other leaders this week include Owens in socring (72 points) and tandem offense (1,135 yards) and Kansas' Bill Bell and Kansas State's Bob Coble in punting (42.3 average).

Currier Helped Rip Tennessee

. . . WEHRLI, OWENS MENTIONED

New York (AP) — Mike Currier, who had spent much of the season watching his Auburn teammates from the bench, come back to the huddle last weekend after lugging the ball eight yards to the enemy two.

"Can you do it again?" asked quarterback Loran Carter.

"Listen, I've been sitting on the bench too long not to be able to get two little yards," the second-string halfback replied and then promptly upheld his boast with a touchdown.

Coupled with a touchdown pass he caught earlier and another he snared later, it provided the Tigers all the pulling off a 28-14 upset over fifth-ranked Tennessee last Saturday.

For that achievement, the 5-foot-11, 180-pound understudy from Oneonta, Ala., was named The Associated Press' college back of the week Tuesday.

Until guiding the stunner, the 20-year-old education major, who is a junior, had seen only limited duty. He had carried the ball only 63 times — mostly when the game was out of doubt — and was used only occasionally his first season.

Currier's showing was one of several standout performances during the weekend, including:

—South Carolina's sensational Tommy Suggs, who had another big week in engineering a 34-21 conquest of Wake Forest. He threw four touchdown passes and set up a fifth with a 21-yard toss to the Wake Forest one.

—Iowa tailback Ed Podolak set a Big Ten record of 286 yards rushing in 17 carries and scored two touchdowns — on runs of 60 and 32 yards — in powering the Hawkeyes to a 68-34 rout of Northwestern.

—Missouri safety Roger Wehrli returned six punts for 149 yards in the Tigers' 42-7 romp past Iowa State. Four of the returns — for 33, 49, 26 and 26 yards — set up touchdowns.

—Oklahoma's Steve Owens rushed for 157 yards, scored twice, threw a 13-yard touchdown pass and caught four passes for 42 yards in the Sooners' 27-23 upset of Kansas.

—North Texas quarterback Steve Ramsey threw five touchdown passes for the second week in a row in a 34-31 victory over Texas-El Paso. He hit 20 of 38 tosses for 376 yards.

—New Mexico State freshman tailback Ron "Po" James carried the ball 40 times for 256 yards and three touchdowns and kicked five conversions in a 47-21 victory over Wichita State.

—Minnesota fullback Jim Carter gained 101 yards rushing and scored three touchdowns in a 27-13 upset of Purdue.

Stock Market's Rally Continues

New York (AP) — The new stock market rally rolled ahead comfortably Tuesday on heavier volume.

Turnover was 17.25 million shares compared with 14.25 million Tuesday. Markets were closed Monday because exchange officials chose Veterans Day—normally a trading—as this week's day in which to catch up with paper work.

Even though Veterans Day was a semiholiday, the usual pent-up demand was created so that there were plenty of orders on tap. Many big blocks changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.22 to 964.20, closing just below its highest level of the session. The ticker tape was four minutes late at the close, with demand strong.

Analysts saw the rally as a continuation of the upswing which begain late Thursday and continued Friday. The stock market was recognizing and extremely good economy, they said, and the election of Richard M. Nixon who is expected to pursue a moderate path not too much different from the preceding administration's.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.6 to 356.2, with industrials up 2.2, rails unchanged, and utilities up 2.2.

In a very broad market of 1,600 issues traded, 956 rose, and 471 fell. New highs for the year totaled 131 and new lows 13.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Investors Urged To View Future In Realistic Light

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Prudent Portfolio

Investors and their advisers in the aftermath of the national election should strive to free their minds of preconceptions based on partisanship and wishful thinking.

For in the last analysis, contemporary investment and speculation consist of adjusting your present affairs to your hard boiled expectations of what may be ahead.

Thus, though President-elect Richard M. Nixon undoubtedly was hopeful that he could fulfill his aspirations of "full employment without inflation" and "prosperity without war," the realistic prospects should be reexamined in light of the extremely close popular vote and the fact that Nixon is a Republican and the new Congress, despite Republican gains in seats, will consist of more Democrats than Republicans in both houses.

In the circumstances, though hoping for the best, the prudent person will continue to keep in his portfolio a substantial ratio of equities (stocks, etc.) as a hedge against inflation, on the one hand, continued economic growth and progress, on the other.

Real Significance

The real significance of the Nixon-Agnew victory on the pocketbook issue lies in several directions. First, they seem more enthusiastic for the private enterprise system than the opposition. Though unable to rewrite past history, the newly elected team does not equate mere massive federal spending and federal intervention with progress. Secondly, by instinct, the new leaders are likely to resist the excesses of soft money as formulated by the economic advisers of the late President Kenendy and President Johnson.

Under the guise of accelerating economic growth, the administrators in the past eight years have gone beyond the teachings of the late Lord John Maynard Keynes and have planned a series of federal budgetary deficits even during the rising phase of the business cycle. Keynes, on the other hand, advocated unbalanced budgets only during lean years, with the recommendation that government expenditures be drastically reduced in fat years when he proposed governmental debt reduction.

Along with fiscal integrity and enthusiasm for the private enterprise profit system, Nixon and Agnew pussyfooted less than the major opposition on "law and order."

The Democrats, not wanting to offend ethnic groups, qualified the promise of "law and order" with demands for justice.

Property Rights

This complex of issues, respecting "law and order" and "due process," have an immense relevancy to property rights, to the future of "growth" stocks, and the whole investment process. Similarly, a philosophy of enthusiasm for free enterprise sets a climate for investment. Any demagogue who downgrades property rights with human rights is subtly undermining the American economic system. For the rights to own a home and to retain as savings part of one's earnings for investment in tools of production entail immensely valuable human rights.

Faced with a Democratic Congress and a squeaker difference in the popular vote, events will induce Nixon to regard his pledges of national unity as more than "mere campaign oratory." After the election, Nixon said that the theme of his policy would be based on a placard held by a teenage girl in Deshler, Ohio during the campaign. It read, "Bring Us Together." One way to symbolize his determination to coalesce the American people would be to invite Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic standard bearer to sit in the Nixon Cabinet, perhaps as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Nixon should operate in the spirit of the Philadelphia School of Economics as led by Henry C. Carey, who preached that the way to strength was to "recognize the harmony of the interests." Nixon needs bridges of friendship to the large alienated low income groups, and of course he needs bipartisan support. As President, it will be in Nixon's self interest to be generous and broadminded. For he will be in competition, not so much with the Democratic Party, as with disruptive trends at home and abroad. If he can proceed in accord with the highest principles of political science, his chances of coping with immense divisive forces will be enhanced.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Unrestricted Aid To Colleges Urged

Washington (AP) — Representatives of seven national associations of higher education jointly declared Tuesday they will call on the new 91st Congress for no-strings-attached federal aid to the colleges and universities.

Both private and public institutions were represented in the call for general institutional support by the federal government for higher education.

Basically, the associations seek federal grants for individual institutions which would be allocated on an unrestricted basis under some formula yet to be worked out.

Fred H. Harrington, new president of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities and also president of the University of Wisconsin, said no specific sum has yet been mentioned in connection with the support sought.

"We think it will be possible to start with small sums and to see how much good can be done with these," he said.

Joining in the call for federal institutional support in addition to Harrington's association was the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, the Association of American Universities, the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the American Association for Higher Education and the American Association of Junior Colleges.

F111s Will Be Brought Back By Air Force

© New York Times Service

Saigon — The United States Air Force announced Wednesday morning that it planned to return a detachment of F111 jets to Nevada after nearly nine months at a combat base in Thailand.

The problem-plagued aircraft flew about 50 combat missions from late March until the first of May and since then has been used only for training missions in Thailand.

The planes were "restricted from flying" after an F111 based at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada crashed in early May. Later that month they were formally grounded.

The Air Force, in a statements, said the aircraft were going back to the United States because they had ended their "assigned tour of temporary duty" and for modifications to the mechanism which allows the wing to swing.

Additional Time To File Briefs Given Two Firms

Two firms who filed objections to an application for corporate reorganization submitted to federal court by the Paddock Hotel of Beatrice were given extra time to file further briefs.

The Home Finance Corp. was given until Friday to file papers and the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Beatrice was given until Monday to file papers. District Judge Robert Van Pelt said he then will take the case under advisement.

The hotel filed papers last February asking permission to reorganize under federal bankruptcy statutes.

Czech Rulers Impose Tight Travel Block

Prague (UPI) — The embattled Czechoslovak government, fearful of a new brain drain to the West, cracked down Tuesday on travel abroad by its citizens.

The government said it was imposing "temporary limitations" on trips out of the country. Observers saw it as an attempt to prevent another massive exit of scientists, intellectuals and other vital talent in the face of new Soviet-imposed repressions.

The travel ban was announced as authorities imposed strict censorship on Czechoslovak news media and the Soviet Union warned against any more anti-Russian demonstrations.

The announcement brought immediate defiance, however, from Czechoslovak youths who vowed to mobilize for a huge anti-Soviet demonstration next Sunday, International Students' Day.

Durocher Surrenders To Zsa Zsa

Chicago (UPI) — Leo Durocher surrendered to Zsa Zsa Gabor Tuesday.

Through his attorney, the Chicago Cubs manager backed down on his attempt to sue the Hungarian actress for $1 million on charges of throwing his name around in a television commercial.

Zsa Zsa's attorney responded with a threat to sue Durocher.

"He had better worry about winning a ball game next season than about Zsa Zsa Gabor," the lawyer, Donald Reuben, said.

Durocher gained a default judgment of $1 million against the actress last July on charges that she used his name as an alleged fellow admirer of the products of Aamco Transmission Inc. in a commercial.

The Cubs' field general maintained he had not authorized Miss Gabor to take liberties with his name. But his attorney, David Bradshaw, told U.S. District Judge Hubert L. Will Tuesday, "I think it would be somewhat foolhardy to keep her as a defendant in this case."

Bradshaw said he came to the conclusion on the basis of a deposition taken from the actress and on the fact that she was completely idemnified by Aamco, a co-defendant in the case.

Will accordingly vacated the judgment against Miss Gabor and dismissed her as a defendant. Durocher's suit against Aamco stands and Zsa Zsa has now added a suit of her own against the company charging travail and other hardships arising from the case.

Here is a practial little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number . Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
